COOLIDGE EXPLAINS MYSTERY MESSAGES

U. S. Acts To Recover Sinclair and Doheny Leases

CRIMINAL AND CIVIL SUITS ARE READY TO FILE

Special Counsel to Charge 'Fraud and Illegality' Against Magnates

WASHINGTON, March 6.—Immediate institution of civil and criminal proceedings to restore the naval oil reserves to the government and to punish those convicted of leasing them to E. L. Doheny and H. F. Sinclair through "fraud and illegality" was announced today by the special government counsel appointed to investigate the oil scandal.

Civil proceedings will begin in Wyoming and California federal courts and criminal proceedings will be started in Washington April 1 through the empanelling of a special federal grand jury.

Special Counsel Acts

The United States government, through its special counsel, Owen J. Roberts and Atlee Pomerene, will ask the courts to cancel the naval oil leases secured by Sinclair and Doheny.

The bills have already been prepared and will be filed, in the case of Sinclair, in the district of Wyoming, where Teapot Dome is located, and, in the case of Doheny, in the southern district of California.

In both cases the government will contend that the leases were secured "fraudulently and illegally" and will ask the courts to restore the reserves to the government on those grounds.

Government counsel disclosed three of the specific indictments against Forbes as follows:

First—Conspiracy to defraud the United States.

Second—Accepting a bribe, and Third—Conspiracy to accept a bribe.

Leaders Agree on Measure Granting 25 Per Cent Cut for 1923

WASHINGTON, March 6.—Immediate passage of a bill granting a 25 per cent reduction in income taxes for the year 1923 was agreed upon today by administration leaders in congress.

Such a provision is carried in the tax bill, but because of the delay in getting this legislation enacted, it was deemed advisable to carry the immediate tax cut in a separate bill.

REFUSES TO GIVE OUT TAX RECORD

Cannot Turn Over Income Reports of Oil Men, Says President

WASHINGTON, March 6.—President Coolidge today declined to turn over to the Senate public lands committee the income tax records of E. L. Doheny, Harry F. Sinclair, E. L. Doheny, Jr., E. B. McLean and Albert B. Fall for use in the oil investigation.

The president declared he was prevented from complying with the request for these records by the existing regulations of the treasury department. He offered, however, to co-operate with the secretary of the treasury in changing the regulations so that members of the committee could inspect records at the department.

The president's reply was turned over to the oil investigating committee without action.

THREATENING NOTE SENT WOMAN

Defendant In Police Court Case Is Warned in Anonymous Letter

Following the trial of Mrs. Marguerite Lackey, 1007 Mariposa street, before a jury in Judge F. H. Lowe's court yesterday on a charge of ill-treating her 8-year-old niece, Lenore Miller, her husband reported to the police last night that she had received an anonymous letter, stating that "if the Ku Klux didn't look after you probably somebody else will."

The case, which was heard before an audience that crowded the court room to capacity, and consisted for the major portion of women, was continued, after the prosecution rested, until next Saturday morning, when the transcript of testimony given at a hearing at Juvenile Hall last week will be presented for the consideration of the court and jurors.

Attorneys In Tilt

The introduction of this transcript developed a lively tilt yesterday between Prosecutor Leslie R. Tarr and Albert D. Pearce, attorney for the defense. Pearce insisted that if the hearing was alluded to by any of the witnesses present at that time, the entire proceedings should be available for scrutiny. After hearing citations of law regarding the matter Judge Lowe decided that an attempt should be made to have the stenographic record of the hearing in court.

During the trial the spectators had to be cautioned by Judge Lowe and Bailiff George Brewster regarding audible expressions of opinion and some were threatened with removal from the court room if they did not desist.

The prosecution took up the entire day in the presentation of their case. Mr. Tarr was assisted by Mrs. Root, state probation officer of Los Angeles.

Police Have Theory

Mrs. Lackey's husband did not leave the letter with the police after acquainting them with its contents. Sentiment on the part of some of those present in the court room yesterday was very marked at times and police are working on the theory that the letter is from a wrought-up listener to the proceedings.

From the trend of Mr. Pearce's cross-examination of witnesses yesterday, especially Dr. G. Kaemmerling, it is probable that the defense will take the ground that Mrs. Lackey was compelled to use stern measures with the little girl to correct certain habits which might prove harmful to her in after years.

The little girl, present in the court room yesterday afternoon, was the least concerned of any of those in attendance. During the testimony of witnesses for the prosecution she quietly laid her head back on the side of her chair and fell fast asleep.

COUNTY'S AID IS SOUGHT FOR CITY

Supervisor Henry Wright And Other Officials on Inspection Visit

The construction of a cement paved roadway along Verdugo Wash and of a sunken roadway from the junction of Sycamore Canyon road down to the Los Angeles river was recommended by Supervisor Henry W. Wright and by James W. Reagan, chief engineer of the Los Angeles county flood control commission after a detailed survey of the area that was swept by the waters that came down from the denuded areas of the hills adjacent to Glendale on Tuesday evening.

Accompanied by representatives of the Glendale Chamber of Commerce, Mr. Wright and Mr. Reagan visited Sycamore Canyon and Scholl Canyon, where the worst damage occurred, and they also inspected the plans that have been drawn up by City Engineer Ben F. Dupuy for the building of a sunken road that would carry off the overflow from Sycamore Canyon into the Los Angeles river, expressing approval of these plans when they were submitted by City Manager V. B. Stone.

Keep Waterways Clear

The only method possible now, Mr. Wright stated, is for the city to keep its waterways clear of all possible obstructions, so that flood water from the near-by hills can have a clear track to run off and not be backed up into the yards and streets of the city. Owing to the limited appropriation available for such work, it was stated, no money can be set aside at this time by the county.

The paving of Verdugo Wash, it was contended, would eliminate the fire hazard from the brush that is at present growing along the sides of the Wash and would also tend to keep brush and other debris from piling up and causing flood waters to back up and overflow into the residences and the city streets.

Vegetation Growing

The inspection trip took the visitors over the burned areas, where they found that much new vegetation is springing up, so so that, by the end of this coming summer, it is believed that sufficient cover will have sprouted to obviate any danger of floods in CHICAGO, March 6.—The nation-wide campaign against the high cost of gasoline started last August cost the Standard Oil company of Indiana $7,842,605, according to the annual financial statement for 1923, made public at a meeting here today. The financial statement also shows a loss of approximately $10,000,000 in reserves attributed to the payment of back taxes. The same board of directors was re-elected. It was announced the decrease in net earnings would not affect the regularly quarterly dividend.

$652,000 Will Be Placed on Security Market at Once, Is Plea

The city council unanimously passed an ordinance this morning authorizing the placing on the market of $652,000 in sewer bonds for the purpose of commencing work on Glendale's new sewer system.

H. C. Saulsberry, city comptroller, in discussing the sale of the bonds, stated that it probably would be April 20 before the bonds were actually ready for sale, but the financiers of the east who make a specialty of municipal bonds would be aware of the impending issue and would be in a position to make their purchases at once, if they so desired.

The odd million dollars' worth of bonds remaining of the issue

RENEW DEMANDS DAUGHERTY QUIT

Republican Party Leaders Urging President to Ask Resignation

WASHINGTON, March 6.—Renewed pressure of the heaviest sort is being brought to bear on President Coolidge to demand the immediate resignation of Attorney General Harry M. Daugherty.

It comes principally from within his own party—from men who believe the continuation of the attorney general in the cabinet constitutes a political liability too heavy to be borne.

Fighting political attacks at long range has its disadvantages, and from the attorney general's confidants today came assurances that he would fight this new attack as savagely as he fought the earlier efforts to force his retirement before he has had his inning in court.

ORIENTAL RITES FOR YOUNG WIFE

'Poison Pen' Letter Fails to Undermine Chinatown's Faith In Girl

SAN FRANCISCO, March 6.—With a brass band, a huge plume-draped hearse and a fortune in cut flowers, funeral services will be held in Chinatown here Sunday for Fannie Ng Fong.

Fannie, found dead, by her own hand, was the wife of a wealthy Chinese herb doctor in Oakland. She killed herself, her friends and relatives said today, after she received a fake love letter, written by an enemy, whose oriental cunning knew that the receipt of it would force the girl to suicide as an unfaithful wife. This is in accordance with the ancient tradition of Fannie's ancestors.

By the same token, an unfaithful wife in Chinatown goes to her grave shamed, unhonored, unsung.

Sunday's elaborate funeral is planned to show that Fannie's friends believed her an honest woman and that the fatal love note came from a "poison pen."

Moroccans Bombard Spanish Army Base

GIBRALTAR, March 6.—Melilla, base of Spanish military operations in Morocco, was reported in flames today. It was said to have been set afire by shells from the Riff tribesmen's artillery.

TRIAL HALTS AS ATTORNEY RAGES

Prosecutor In Treason Case Resents Insults of Defense Counsel

MUNICH, Mar. 6.—Amidst tumultuous courtroom scenes, the high treason trial of General Erich Ludendorff, Adolf Hitler and eight other revolutionary conspirators was suddenly halted today. For a time it appeared that the proceedings had broken down entirely, but later it was announced that the trial would be resumed Friday.

The public prosecutor declared he would not continue "on account of the insults of counsel for the defense." He took special exception to the accusation that he was suffering from the "arresting mania."

"I will not remain here to be insulted," angrily declared the prosecutor, as he gathered up his papers and left the courtroom. This action caused a sensation.

HEIR TO ESTATE, PREFERS POVERTY

Descendant of Nobility of France Returns to Poor Farm to Live

MIDDLESBORO, Ky., Mar. 6.—"It's the best place I ever lived in."

With this short explanation at the door, Steve Whité, descendant of the nobility of France and heir to a vast estate in the country, returned today to the poor farm in this county.

White, who had been four years painting and doing odd jobs about town, was discovered a month ago as the only living heir to the French estate. He was persuaded to leave the poor farm for the new life.

"I can't stand that sort of thing," White told his cronies. "I knew all the time the money was mine, but I don't want it now. This place is good enough for me."

White is 80 years old.

SOCIAL EVENTS

Plan D. A. R. Tea

Anticipation of the state convention March 13, 14 and 15 in Pasadena, and of the tea the afternoon of Saturday, March 15, at the Tuesday Afternoon clubhouse in Glendale, was the dominating interest yesterday afternoon at the meeting of General Richard Gridley chapter at the First Congregational church.

Mrs. C. W. Houston, regent, presided over the meeting and announced tentative plans for the tea, which is to be one of the brilliant social affairs of the D. A. R. gathering in the southland.

Mrs. Houston, Miss Ida D. Myers and Mrs. S. C. Leppelman will attend the convention as official delegates from General Richard Gridley chapter. There will also be a large delegation of other members. It is of interest to know that this is the first time that the chapter has been entitled to send two delegates to a state convention. The delegates are chosen according to the size of the chapter.

The first big social event of the convention will be a banquet the night of March 13 at the Huntington hotel in Pasadena.

On the afternoon of the tea there will probably be over 300 Daughters received from 2 till 4 o'clock at the Tuesday Afternoon clubhouse, honoring Mrs. Booth of Pasadena, vice president general of the national organization, and the retiring and incoming state officers.

Arranging for the affair are Mrs. E. W. W. Hayward, chairman of a committee of ten on decoration; Mrs. Addison, chairman of a committee of twenty in charge of the tea room; Mrs. Doral L. Gibson, head of the music department of the Glendale Union High school, in charge of the musical program.

Mesdames Mabel Franklin Ocker, J. A. Crawford and Albert D. Pearce will pour.

At the chapter meeting yesterday Mrs. L. B. Beach of Lankershim gave a most interesting paper on "Martha Washington."

Another pleasure was hearing Mrs. Margaret Gale of 122 North Cedar street, tell of Pierson Banning of Los Angeles being honored by receiving the Benjamin Franklin prize.

Mrs. Gale's mother and father were close friends of Abraham Lincoln and when she was a tiny girl she was held on Lincoln's lap many times.

Meet At Church

"Guest day" was celebrated yesterday afternoon by the members of the Missionary society of the Central Christian church at an enjoyable affair held in the intermediate Sunday school rooms.

Mesdames A. K. Crawford, J. E. Peters, I. C. Leggitt, M. G. Musser and Miss Carrie Cornwell presided as hostesses.

A short business session was held during the early part of the afternoon with the preident, Mrs. R. C. Logan in charge. This was followed by an enjoyable program arranged by Mesdames C. W. Bacon and Eva Hutton.

Japan and the Japanese people was the theme of the afternoon's program, which included an interesting talk by Mrs. A. W. Van Loon relative to the conversion of the Japanese people. Mrs. Van Loon is in charge of the local Japanese work and because of her association and work with the Japanese people was able to bring before the large number of women present a vivid description of the daily life of these people.

Rev. C. A. Cole told briefly of the successful work being accomplished at the Japanese Christian Institute in Los Angeles.

As a concluding number on the program Mrs. C. C. Stoler favored those present with a beautifully rendered vocal number.

The rest of the afternoon was devoted to an informal social hour when tea and Japanese rice cake containing fortunes were served.

Hear Mrs. Meeker

Mrs. R. W. Meeker of 1320 East Colorado street, chairman of "Conversation of the Redwoods" for the Los Angeles district, California Federation of Women's clubs, was one of the speakers Tuesday at the Hollywood Woman's club.

She told of this state-wide movement to save California's stately Redwoods and urged the Hollywood women to support the movement. There was a most generous response to her plea.

An interesting part of the meeting for Mrs. Meeker was that she was seated on the platform with Opie Read, novelist, and Capt. Richard Hobson; both of whom she had met in the east.

AGED SORCERER OF HAWAII DIES

Ranks of 'Kahunas' Rapidly Thinning, But People Stay Superstitious

HONOLULU, March 6.—With the death recently of Kekoowai, an aged Hawaiian man, on the island of Molokai, there passed one of the few remaining "kahunas" or sorcerers of the old regime, men, who according to Hawaiian belief had the power of "anaana" or praying people to death.

But, though the old kahunas are disappearing, the belief in their special powers is still strong. Few of the present-day Hawaiians priding themselves on their belief in the Christian religion and their education in the American public schools but will admit, if pressed: "Oh, well, if a 'kahuna' should start to pray you to death—there is no doubt of it—you will die! My grandmother has told me—" and then the listener will hear a tale of someone stricken down in the full blush of health because he had incurred the enmity of another and the enemy had secured a "kahuna" to recite the "anaana pule," or prayer of death, with the offending one named as the chief object of attention.

Tells Its History

David Malo, Hawaiian historian relates in his "Antiquities" that on the death of a rich or distinguished person or of one who was personally very popular, it would frequently be said that he had died because of "anaana," because such a person was envied for his property, distinction or popularity. Under such circumstances a ceremony known as "kuni" would be performed by "kahunas" who were friendly to the deceased in order to ascertain the guilty party.

A pig, brought before the "kahuna" by relatives or friends of the dead man, was released and special attention given to the animal's actions. If the pig went to the right of the "kahuna" the blame was fixed on the wife's relatives if to the left it was placed on the relatives of a younger brother. If the pig stuck his snout in the air, this meant that an "alii" or chief, had prayed the man to death; if he stood directly in front of the "kahuna" it was a sign that a table companion had committed the sin.

Eventually, after incantations and ceremonies, the "kahuna kuni' who was hired to do this detective work would behold the spirit of the guilty one, "his head down his eyes closed, as good as dead." After this the "kahuna anaana" took up the work of praying to death the individual that had been picked out and, according to the historian, was generally successful.

Clash of Methods

An interesting clash of ancient and modern detective methods occurred recently on the island of Molokai previous to the trial which resulted in the conviction of Edward Duvauchelle, a French-Hawaiian, some 65 years of age, and his two sons, for the murder of a Chinese fishpond keeper named Wai Bow. Duvauchelle had more or less reputation among the country folk of Molokai as a "kahuna." Soon after the hunt narrowed down toward the Duvauchelle household one of the star witnesses, a Hawaiian, who lived near by, died of tuberculosis; another witness, a Japanese, named Suga, wrote out a purported confession and then committed suicide. After that the other witnesses shut up like clams, and it was a long while before many of them could be induced to go on the stand.

Oil Fever Draws Farmer From Fields and Causes Depression, Says Expert

By CARL L. TURNER
For International News Service.

KANSAS CITY, March 6.—High freight rates were forced to share the position of chief farm distributer today when reports from various sections of the southwest revealed that oil and gas development has created a chaotic condition in many formerly prosperous farming counties in Oklahoma, Arkansas and Northern Texas.

While farms in general have not suffered to a great extent, one grave enough to be considered alarming, serious consequences were foreseen by many county agents unless farmers spend more attention on farm production and less on work in oil development.

The report of J. W. Riley, county agent of Creek county, Oklahoma, is cited as representative of the consensus of agriculturists queried. He said:

"Agricultural conditions in my county were worse at the beginning of the year than at that period of the year during the last decade.

"Coupled with the financial status in the county we might say the morale of the farm folk was just about as low as it could possibly get, from the viewpoint of successful agriculture.

"As has been stated in previous reports, the oil and gas spirit of development and production has created a chaotic condition.

"Quite a number of good farms, wholly or in part, were idle this year because of the demand at the opening of the agricultural activity for workers and teams in the oil fields.

"A number of these farms, owned by good farmers and good business men, lay idle because a renter for one year could not be depended upon to attend to the farm throughout that period; the tenant would get his crop planted and, when an oppoftunity presented itself, would take his team to work in the oil fields, neglecting his farm interest and that of his landlord.

"Money, Money, Money"

"No permanent agricultural development can be done here or in any other sector until the landowner himself is imbued with the idea that productive soil is the basis of all permanent prosperity. While many land holders will admit the veracity of this statement, yet there is a lack of vision of possible future accomplishments in agriculture for the reason that the almighty dollar has been too close to the eye and has obscured the larger and more permanent resources of the country."

Other defenders of agriculture pointed out that the development of oil fields not only is attracting wholesale numbers of farm workers, but the drilling and finding of oil lays waste too many acres of valuable farm lands almost daily.

Chief among the products to be affected as a result of drillings, it was learned is cotton.

Agriculturists, almost without exception, expressed the belief that attempts to prevent farm labor from joining the ranks of the oil workers, where they receive big weekly dividends on their labor, would prove futile. Working with this in mind, they are urging employment of the diversified system of farming to bring out the best from farms unhampered by the bright light of oil-field dividends.

"Live at Home," Slogan

"The plan of southern farmers must shift from straight cotton farming to a more diversified plan, using poultry, dairy cows and other livestock," Riley advised. "'Live at home' is our slogan, and here and there over the country we find farmers who are trying to change their system of farming. This, of course, is possible if the resident owns the farm, but it is slow work where 75 per cent of the farmers are renters, sublessees or share-croppers, with no housing for livestock.

"The attitude of the banker and the merchant has always been one of helpfulness, consistent with good business practices, but the character of the risks the banker is asked to take is such that he is compelled to be very conservative in financing agriculture."

CROFTERS TIRE OF SCOTCH ISLANDS

Realize Futility of Trying to Make Living on Barren Land

GLASGOW, March 6.—Whether the 30,000 inhabitants of the Islands of Lewis and St. Kilda should leave their homes because of the hopelessness of their lot is a question agitating every part of Scotland.

For a century past these "crofters," as they are known, have been fighting against famine, always in need of money and never knowing where to get seed or food to carry them over the winter months. Sheer attachment to their homes has sustained them in a continuous fight against starvation, but now the point has come when all are considering whether it is worth while to continue the struggle further.

In 1922 and 1923 a number of the islanders emigrated to the United States and Canada. They are now writing back home to their relatives to the effect they cannot understand why they remained and faced privation for so long.

Matters have been brought to a climax by the entire failure of the crops last year, and the present position is described as "unparalleled." The whole subject has just been discussed by a Socialist conference at Edinburgh.

One member, James Duncan, an agricultural expert, pointed out that the condition of the islanders was absolutely unchanged since pre-war days, and it was impossible for any government, labor or otherwise, to put Lewis and St. Kilda on an economic basis or even one which would provide sufficient food for the inhabitants. He thought that the reign of sentiment and devotion to fatherland has gone on long enough.

The unsuitability of the islands for agriculture is the chief cause of the trouble, for the inhabitants are entirely dependent on their own produce, but both the geographical and geological conditions are against any improvement in this form of industry.

Only a small portion of the land is arable, mostly on the eastern side; the western coast is bleak, rocky and swept by every chill Atlantic gale, while the atmosphere is everywhere moist and cold.

The soil is of the poorest, being so shallow and light as to be of little practical value, and only scanty crops can be expected even under the most favorable climatic conditions.

Lord Leverhulme, great commercial magnate, and others have spent large sums in attempting to improve the conditions of the islanders, but the physical difficulties are too great, and their efforts have come to nothing.

It now seems that the only remedy is for the inhabitants to leave this life of never-ceasing and unprofitable struggle and start afresh in a country where they could hope for some return for their labors. Mentally and physically they are a race Scots-covered subterranean shrines below some of the rock houses, where strange rites were performed. The priests of these tribes smoked tobacco ceremoniously, it was disclosed, tobacco pipes having been found on the shrines. Mountain lions were held in much esteem by these ancients.

QUOTAS ASSESSED FOR OLYMPIAD

Eighteen Cities Throughout Country to Contribute Nearly $300,000

NEW YORK, March 6.—Quotas aggregating nearly $300,000 have already been assigned in the campaign for funds to send America's 350 athletes to the Eighth Olympiad in Paris next summer, according to a statement issued from the offices of Major-General Henry T. Allen, executive officer of the American Olympic committee. Eighteen cities and towns scattered all the way from here to the Pacific coast are represented on the list.

The New York City quota of $100,000 heads the column. Philadelphia comes next, with a quota of $50,000, and Boston third, with one of $35,000. Cleveland O., is asked to raise $25,000 and Detroit, $15,000. Buffalo, Newark and Washington, D. C., are down for $10,000 each and Trenton, N. J.; Worcester, Mass., and Youngstown, O., for $5000 each. Several cities and towns have consented, through their local campaign committees, to be enrolled in the $1000 class, among them being El Paso, Tex.; Harrisburg, Pa., and Kingston, N. Y.

"These quotas have all been accepted by the committees appointed to canvass the respective cities and towns for subscriptions toward the fund," General Allen explained. "While none of the amounts are binding, we have every hope of seeing each of them filled—even over-subscribed. Our cause is a worthy one—the preservation of America's athletic supremacy at the greatest of all international sports events. The city chairmen are all capable, earnest workers, who have unselfishly agreed to give of their time and effort to the undertaking. They deserve prompt and ample support."

How to Live for 600 Years in Seven Hints

BELFAST, March 6.—Advice on "How to live to be 600" has been given to people of this city by Miss Alfaretta Hallam, American psychologist, author and lecturer.

Her main points for attaining eternal youth are:

1. Drink two quarts of water per day.
2. Avoid hurry in eating and traveling.
3. Discard bleached flours and bleached sugars.
4. Remember that a destructive thought can change the chemistry of the body from a state of health to one of disease.
5. Don't be kittenish if advanced in years, but be cheerful in outlook, and dress with a taste which suggests that the wearer is a person who respects himself or herself.
6. When married don't dream of settling down in a slovenly or satisfied sense.
7. Smile, smile, smile and then turn the corners of your mouth up and obviate the droop of the hopeless.

CHAPLAIN CLAIMS MAN IS ILLOGICAL

Church's Aim to Save Him From Conflicting Self, Says Veteran

By GEORGE T. HOOK
For International News Service.

PHILADELPHIA, Mar. 6.—The modern plan is all wrong, the world is fast becoming a crazy quilt, while the church is idle, and, contrary to general belief, man is not a reasoning animal. So says Rev. A. Studdert Kennedy, chaplain to the king of England, veteran of the World war, who was wounded and gassed, and known to the British "Tommies" as "Woodbine Willie." Rev. Kennedy expressed his opinion while attending a recent church and mission rally here.

"All of us have two or three selves," he declared, "and the purpose of the church is to save men from the conflict of these selves and make them one. The world has become a patchwork quilt, and a bad patchwork quilt at that.

Not Rational

"Men believe they were born rational animals. They were not, and they are not reasoning animals. The general idea is that men reason and then act, while women act on impulse. The actuality is that men act on impulse and build up a splendid set of reasons afterward, while women act on impulse and never bother about the reason. Men act on premises that are mostly prejudices unexamined, and that's what plays the devil. I will tell you, you have got to be honest to get to heaven, and you are not honest when you talk about things you know nothing of."

Dr. Kennedy flayed as "rotten, dirty, disreputable work" the shooting down of Indians by British soldiers, and of Haitians by American soldiers. It's all dishonest, he said, that indirectly strikes at defenseless women and children.

"England blockaded Germany for eighteen months after the war. Revolting business. Yet we do not war upon women and children, they say. My God, that is just the sort of people we do war on when we do these things.

Raps Churches

The king's chaplain struck at the inactivity of the church when he continued:

"I am told not to talk about unemployment in England. The men and women stand on the street corners and in their desperation refuse to believe in the church or in God. They tell me 'your talk is all fake and bunk, and we do not wish to hear you preachers any more.' And yet I am supposed to be silent about unemployment. It's all cant—rotten cant! We cannot save souls in that condition. We're rotten at it. The duty of the church is to create an army of men who have conquered the conflict of selves, who will save the world. That's the job of the church, and it is not being done."

He branded as "all cant and all lie" the "for freedom, justice and peace" plea that brought millions of men into armed ranks. He said he expects "the same fake and bunk" will be handed out in the next war, but that he, like "lots and lots of others," will refuse to fight.

Announce Change in 'Mice and Men' Dates

ARCTIC AIRSHIP BASES DESIRABL

Britain Urged to Get Its Footing in Polar Race With America

By DAVID M. CHURCH
For International News Service.

LONDON, Mar. 6.—Great Britain is being urged to look forward to the establishment of Arctic air bases, as the result of the announcement of Secretary of the Navy Denby that the United States hopes to claim the North Pole as American territory, if it is reached by the flight of the dirigible Shenandoah.

Commander Burney, M. P., who is one of the backers of the British scheme for airship communication with the dominions, warns that it is only a question of years before the Arctic regions, or a portion of them, will play an important part in the world's scheme of aerial transport.

Commander Burney sat in his office whirling a globe in front of him and ruminating.

The globe stopped, and Commander Burney placed his finger on a tiny speck.

"That is Wrangel island," he remarked, "away out of the world, so to speak—a desolate spot that may very easily become in the future tremendously important.

"Wrangel island lies in a straight line from our country. True, the distance is between three and four thousand miles, but an airship can do that, and if we had it as a base we should be able to think of world travel from quite a new angle.

"Operating via Wrangel island we should be provided with an airship route with extraordinary possibilities. From Wrangel you can get down to Vancouver and all over Canada, to Hong Kong and the whole of the eastern dependencies.

"By such a route you overcome the difficulties of crossing the Rockies, which go right down practically to Mexico, and by their height militate against the carrying westward any great load by airship.

"Wrangel, in fact, is the Singapore of the north, and its strategic significance cannot be overlooked. Air developments have introduced quite new strategic consideration.

"We were the first people to secure naval bases, and on that principle our sea power has been dependent.

"For the future we have to see that we are not left behind in air bases, and Wrangel island has assumed in this respect a position of importance.

"The Labor government, which is not hide-bound by old traditions, has a great opportunity, and a definite plan with regard to Wrangel island would be as valuable militarily as commercially."

Asks Millions for Alleged Persecution

PHILADELPHIA, Mar. 6.—A $4,620,525 damage suit is on file in the courts here against the American Federation of Labor and affiliated labor organizations. The suit was brought by Harry S. Jeffery, who charges the labor organization with having engaged in a conspiracy the last four years to bring about his ruin socially and financially.

Jeffery maintains the alleged conspiracy was actuated because he, when chairman of the advisory board of the railway employes of Philadelphia, Camden and vicinity, refused to use his influence to bring about a nation-wide strike after the government turned back the railroads to private control.

A mallard duck has been known to live twenty-two years in captivity.

SKYSCRAPERS ADD TO WOE OF CITY

Traffic and Light Problems Develop With Each Added Floor

By CHARLES A. SMITH
For International News Service.

LONDON, March 6.—Skyscrapers have not solved and will not solve the office-building problem in America, according to Raymond Unwin, chief town-planning adviser to the English Health Ministry.

Unwin has just returned from a visit to the United States, where he acted as adviser to the New York municipality on town-planning schemes.

In a paper read to the Royal Institute of British Architects, Unwin exploded the beliefs of people who, he said, returned from visiting America with glowing accounts of the skyscrapers, and urged the institute not to consider the introduction of the "upward" method of expanding cities, which he considered was a danger and a menace to the health of the community.

Causes Artificial Lighting

"With every added story the effective floor area per story is reduced," said Unwin, in discussing the office-building problem as relating to New York, "the cost per square foot is increased, while the greater number of elevators required take their toll of space from each succeeding floor.

"Every story added tends to darken all the floors below; even in spite of the bright light of New York this is becoming increasingly evident, and the number of rooms in which artificial light has to be used is much greater than in England," continued Unwin.

"New York is discovering that you cannot dispense with transportation by going up. You merely change the horizontally moving street car for the vertically traveling elevator.

Makes Traffic Problem

"Increased height means increased traffic congestion, while the darkening of offices and its consequent injury to health and efficiency is serious. Eyesight is injured, and tuberculosis and other diseases are encouraged.

"America will have to find some other way than the use of skyscrapers in order to expand its cities," said Unwine in conclusion.

GREAT STRIDES IN SCIENCE AHEAD

Year 1924 Gives Promise of Major Discoveries, Says Sir Wm. Bragg

By DAVID M. CHURCH
For International News Service.

LONDON, March 6.—The year 1924 may be the most important year in the history of science.

Scientific leaders declare that laboratories the world over are buzzing with activity, and 1924 may see many of nature's hidden secrets revealed.

"It is possible that the world is on the verge of far-reaching scientific discoveries," declared Sir William Bragg, Director of the Royal Institute Laboratories.

"It is, of course, impossible to say what the nature of these discoveries may be. Research work is being pursued in laboratories all over the country, and the scientific mind hesitates to proclaim a discovery until there is absolute certainty.

Field Is Unlimited

"There are the secrets of the atom still to be unveiled. Theoretically we know quite a lot about the atom, but in reality we still do not know exactly what it is and the full nature of its powers. There is an immense field for investigation here, and each step in the exploration is not only a triumph for science, but, let us hope, will mark a forward step in the happiness of humanity.

"It all depends upon the uses to which mankind puts scientific discovery. A new element misused may prove disastrous. There is the case of poison in warfare; but properly understood and harnessed to man's services, it may be of incalculabe benefit. We cannot tell; our province as scientists is to discover the hidden thing in the first place.

Beyond Realization

"We have every-day evidence of the force which the atom in mass formation can produce. The whole material world in which we live is an expression of this. The hidden energy that lies within the structure of the atom itself has yet to be realized."

"Would the explosion of an atom have the catastrophic results which are sometimes predicted?" Sir William was asked. "Would it mean the end of the world?"

"Well, I scarcely think so," he answered. "But one cannot say. It is not possible to prophesy what might happen. It is more hopeful to think of the world-wide interest in scientific research and to realize that we are now in a great era of discovery."

U. S. SAFETY LIES IN FUEL SUPPLY

German Naval Expert Sees No Reason for America To Be Alarmed

BERLIN, March 6.—"America, richest in oil of all the countries of the world, need not be alarmed about the next great war," writes Vice-Admiral Hollweg, a well-known German naval expert, in the Hamburger Nachrichten.

"With her superabundance of rich oil fields at home and vast fields within her sphere of influence she will be entirely safe against any combination of naval powers whatever.

"People are talking much about war between America and Japan. I do not believe in it. Japan has no more than a month's oil supply in her home waters. She will have no chance whatever to transport oil from Dutch-India or Saghalien without interference by America. This is by far the weakest point of Japan in a future war against any naval power.

Oil Prime Need

"Future wars will largely depend on whether the belligerents will have a sufficient supply of oil for cruisers, U-boats, Zeppelins, tanks, motor trucks and all the requirements of a great military machine. So it is safe to say that the United States, by controlling more than 85 per cent of the world's oil production, holds war and peace in its hands. During the World War oil shortage caused considerable trouble to Great Britain. Strategical operations of the Grand Fleet from time to time were greatly hampered by heavy losses in oil-tank ships torpedoed by German U-boats.

"As costs do not matter in war-time the chief problem of the naval staff of a great power consists in either storing a sufficient amount of oil in anticipation of warlike events or in doing everything to protect her lines of communication.

Well Located

"This is a very easy task for the United States both ways. Geographically, America is in a very favorable position. With very rich oil fields at her disposal, she is able to store every imaginable quantity in a comparatively short time. The giant tanks to be constructed for this purpose could be made entirely bomb-proof. Airplanes will not be able to do much harm, for the war taught us that the British, in spite of numerous attacks, never were able to destroy the German U-boat base at Zeebrugge. Moreover, Mexican oil is within America's reach, and the Atlantic as well as the Pacific fleet will protect transports from South America.

"In a war against a big naval power Great Britain would be in very critical position. She either has oil at home nor will she ever manage to maintain an undisturbed control of the waterways connecting her with her vast oil fields and oil reservoirs abroad. Thus the undisputed command of the Mediterranean is a matter of life and death to her. Gibraltar and Singapore have to be held at all costs, for they are the posts between which the magnificent network of smaller bases spreads as a protection of the imperial oil supply.

Won't Aid British

"It seems doubtful whether the United States, in case of an Anglo-French war, will supply England with oil. German cruisers were not allowed to take oil in American ports, although the States, at that time, was neutral.

"France is entirely devoid of oil. In fact, this is her only actual military weakness as against England. French experts are well aware of that fact, for they have prepared a bill for the chamber providing for the construction of enormous oil reservoirs for naval requirements. It also provides for the amalgamation of all French oil companies into one big trust to be controlled by the state. That's why France is eagerly seeking the control of the Danube and is also making every possible effort to secure a hand in the Rumanian oil shares. Italy is in just as bad a position as France. Therefore she secured oil contracts with Poland."

Famous Women Are Fooling Father Time

They are a few of the women who are fooling Father Time. Fannie Ward, Mary Roberts Rinehart and Marie are grandmothers. Elinor Glyn has a married daughter. WOMEN POLITICAL INFLUENCE FELT

British Feminists Unite on Social Campaign With Lady Astor Leading

By CHARLES A. SMITH
For International News Service.

LONDON, March 6.—Great Britain's eight women members of the House of Commons, although of different parties and diametrically opposed to each other on most political questions, mean to unite in combating social evils and on questions vital to the home.

This was decided upon by them at a dinner given to them by the women's committee welcoming them to Parliament, at which they made speeches concerning their trials and tribulations as members of Parliament, and their hopes of what they will be able to do for the women of the country.

Lady Astor, who has now the nickname of "Mother of the House of Commons," as the first woman member, told in a witty speech of her trials and warned her new "children" that, above all, the one thing they would need most was an unfailing sense of humor.

About Wearing Hats

"Whether or not I should wear a hat was one of my first trials," said Lady Astor. "I soon discovered, however, that if I had not worn a hat I should have shocked most of the male members as much as if Lady Godiva herself had appeared."

The Duchess of Atholl, a new woman member, confessed that the question of wearing a hat had been her great fear, and it was with a great sense of relief that she had found that the new Labor women members had settled the problem for her by appearing without headgear. "I do so like to work with my head uncovered," she confessed. Lady Terrington admitted that, although she knew "one's hair does get awfully untidy," she would like to dispense with a hat also.

The speeches foreshadowed close co-operation between the women members regarding all matters vital to feminine Great Britain. Lady Astor, speaking for the Conservatives; Mrs. Wintringham for the Liberals, and Margaret Bondfield for the Labor party, stated that they would endeavor to co-operate, putting causes before caucuses in the matters of housing and infant welfare.

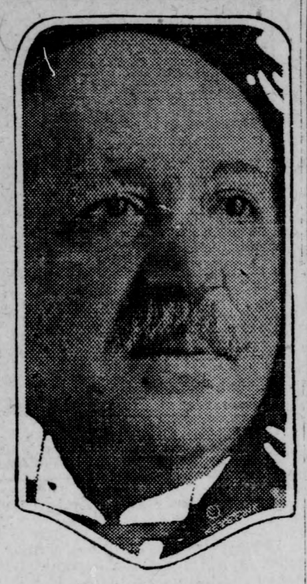
She Stands on Chair

Miss Bondfield, affectionately known among the Laborites as "Our Maggie," stood on her chair to speak and showed all the fervor of an ardent social reformer. With flushed cheeks and blazing eyes, she declared that England could show an example to the whole world.

"Fundamental changes will shortly take place," she declared. "They will show, as history has shown previously, that fundamental changes can take place without violence and without bloodshed."

From all the impressions and signs coined at the gathering, the male members of the House of Commons are going to have a heated and trying time at the instigation of the women, who, although only eight in number, show that what they lack in numerical strength they can make up in oratory and sarcasm.

Roussos In Power As Greece Ousts Glucksburg Kings



M. G. Roussos

Although Venizelos is out of the government of Greece at the time the country is freed at last from the influence of the Glucksburg dynasty of kings, his policies are expected to dominate it because of the naming of M. G. Rousses, his closest friend, as premier. M. Roussos was at one time the Greek minister to the United States. While he was forming his cabinet, the Greek assembly voted to dispense with the dynasty, the last member of which, King George, is in exile.

HOW TO CHOOSE RIGHT GIRL TOLD

Pastor Says Indigestion and Divorce Are Companions In Home Life

By GEORGE T. HOOK
For International News Service

PHILADELPHIA, March 6.—Indigestion and divorce are boon companions. A girl who can make a good pie can make a good impression on a man's heart. Flappers court Lady Nicotine just to shock their elders. They do other unconventional things for the same reason. A girl whose definition of marriage does not include babies shouldn't get married.

These are the nuggets contained in the Rev. Christian G. Koppel's expressed opinion on "What Sort of Girl Makes a Good Wife?" Dr. Koppel is one of the leading ministers of this city.

According to the learned reverend, "only real love offers a basis for a happy marriage.

"If all young men and women knew that and were strong enough to act upon it there would be few failures in marriage," he opines. "Behind a mutual physical attraction there should be a strong harmony of deeper feeling between the two physical natures. Marriage is no joke. It is a serious matter into which we may unthinkingly drift.

"The sort of girl who makes a good wife is one who knows how to cook. Many a home has been wrecked by poor cooking. A girl may be able to do fancy sewing, but that does not make home. Every girl should have a course in domestic science before leaving school. Besides, men like the sort of girl whose idea of marriage includes children."

Chaplin's Comedy Attire Is Provided By Three Friends

The evolution of Charles Spencer Chaplin's trick comedy suit, is told by Ford Sterling.

The famous shoes were given to Chaplin by Sterling.

Fred Mace gave him the pants.

Charlie Avery gave him the coat.

The three comedians, after supplying the outfit, took him to the Mack Sennett wardrobe, where he picked out the famous bamboo cane.

As none of the quartet had money, Chaplin flipped the cane backwards, caught it in a very trick manner and the amazed wardrobe keeper said, "Take it, I see that it belongs o you."

T. C. Galbraith and His Staff Are Guests of Spanish War Comrades

Thomas C. Galbraith of Los Angeles, department commander of the Spanish War veterans, and his staff, visited Glendale last night and were entertained by members of the local camp and auxiliary meeting in the K. P. hall on South Brand boulevard.

Commander L. D. Pike was in charge of the meeting and announced "open warfare" between the red and blue armies led by Dr. Mabry and Mr. Voss and Commander Pike and Mr. Young. New members are what these two factions are out after and Dr. Mabry's forces were reported ahead last night.

Members of Mr. Galbraith's staff represented Long Beach, Pomona, Alhambra and Los Angeles.

At the close of the meeting the camp and auxiliary met for an informal social hour with refreshments served by Mesdames Wilder, Hambel, Merrihew and Young.

Girl Pupils in Rural Schools Best Athletes

SACRAMENTO, March 6.—Girl students in rural schools far surpass the athletic records of their urban sisters, according to Dr. Herbert R. Stolz, state supervisor of physical education, in his annual report.

Athletic proficiency in sports during the last few years has been particularly marked among girl students generally, said the director. Within two years girl athletes have bettered jumping and running records by more than 10 per cent.

During the past five years, the increase of high school students participating in competitive athletics is more than 20 per cent. Football in particular is gaining popularity, according to Dr. Stolz, more than fifty high schools having recently adopted the game.

Chicago Matrons Now Carrying Revolvers

CHICAGO, March 6. — The Alkali Ikes of Chicago do not pack six guns around with them so much as simple folks over in Regent street and sauce manufacturers in Worcestershire believe. But it's getting to have quite a vogue among the city's women.

Mrs. Frank Townley Brown and her daughter, Mrs. Gerald Grupe, who live out along the exclusive North Shore, are the proof.

Mrs. Brown paused as she was about to enter her motor car on the way to attend a concert by John McCormack and showed an interviewer her weapon.

"It's just a little 38-caliber six-gun," she said with an air of 'Well, what of it?' She said she had heard that it was quite the thing for Chicago's society women to pack gats around with them.

She and her daughter have the permission of the chief of police to go armed. The servants, too, in the Townley home carry weapons.

Mrs. Townley owns a farm near Chicago. On dull afternoons she spins out there and improves her eye popping tomato cans off fence rails with her six-gun.

M'Adoo Only Bourbon Candidate in Illinois

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., March 6. William Gibbs McAdoo was the only Democrat in the Illinois presidential preference race yesterday following the withdrawal of Governor Smith of New York. Smith's name was entered in Illinois primaries without his consent, according to his supports.

The field in the race for the Democratic nomination for senator was also narrowed with the withdrawal of James Hamilton Lewis of Chicago. Lewis, who is in Mexico City, was unable to file a withdrawal affidavit in compliance with the primary law but his telegraphic notice of withdrawal was accepted.

Add Five New Men To Fire Department

Five of the fourteen new firemen recently authorized by the City Council have already been added to the force, and the full complement will be employed as soon as suitable men apply, said Fire Chief Lankford this morning.

Four men will be added to the personnel at Fire House No. 1, on East Broadway; four to No. 2, at Brand and Los Feliz; four to No. 3, on Grand View, and two to No. 4, in the Verdugo Woodlands.

The engine from No. 1 station, in charge of Mechanic Al Moniot, spent over two hours yesterday pumping out the water from the cellar of the Broadway school. The cellar is 40x36 feet, and the water stood four feet deep.

Bloodshed Feared in Honduran Capital

WASHINGTON, March 6.—Precautions to prevent bloodshed among the foreign residents during the forthcoming battle between Honduran rebel and federal troops for the possession of Tegucigalpa have been taken by the diplomatic corps in the capital, the state department has been advised.

Lopez Guiterrez, head of the de facto government, is reported to have fled from Tegucigalpa to a point on the south coast, while the rebels are within ten miles of the capital.

Blood Transfusion Follows Operation

A major operation was performed at 9:30 o'clock last night at the Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital upon Mrs. Mary Smith of 1234 Hillcrest avenue, Pasadena.

Following the operation a blood transfusion was found necessary by Dr. H. G. Westphal and Dr. R. M. Farnham, the attending physician.

Reports from the hospital this morning stated that Mrs. Smith's condition was as well as could be expected considering the seriousness of the case.

Illinois' Basketball Squad Is Formidable

URBANA, Ill., March 6.—With mid-year examinations over, Coach Craig Ruby has started his Illinois university varsity basketball squad on a schedule of hard daily drills, pointing toward a whirlwind finish in the Big Ten fight.

The squad came through the exams unhurt by the eligibility ruling and is working with more zest than since its first defeat at the hands of Minnesota. The victory of Ohio State over Iowa and the great game Illinois put up against Michigan make the Illini look as good as any team in the conference, campus critics have it.

Wisconsin and Michigan are the two teams the Illini feel they must beat to take the Big Ten title. Captain Potter led the team in a spectacular game at Ann Arbor, and there is confidence in camp that the Wolverines can be beaten here. The two coming games with Wisconsin are also being looked forward to with optimism.

Opinion here is that the conference winner this year can lose three, perhaps four, games.

Coach Ruby has about decided to keep his present squad intact. Captain Potter, Roettger and Mauer will stick at forwards and Stilwell at center. Popken is sure of a guard position, with Britton, Parker and Haines fighting for the other guarding job.

British Seamen in Plight for Work

LIVERPOOL, March 6.—Two thousand British sea captains, who haven't been to sea for months, are facing a crisis.

Savings of seamen are rapidly being exhausted, and some are even now existing in a state of semi-starvation.

Thirty thousand mariners, below the rating of captain, are out of work and are drawing unemployment benefits.

The Mercantile Marine Service association, in a survey of conditions due to the slump in shipping, find that captains, who have had contracts for salaries from $2500 upward a year, are now trimming lamps and swabbing decks as able seamen for $600 a year.

One able captain is a street hawker, another has become a taxi driver, and many others are

BRITISH KING IS HIGHLY RESTRICTED

Monarch More Limited Than Citizens of Empire; Can't Belong to Clubs

LONDON, March 6.—Political changes recently in Britain have led to a discussion regarding the powers of the king. Many people think that a king has almost unlimited sway. As a matter of fact, in Britain, no man is more hedged around by rules and regulations than its sovereign.

In the first place King George must remain a Protestant. Should he become a Roman Catholic he would have to renounce his throne. In the same way, he must not become a Freemason; had he happened to be one at the time of his accession he would have been obliged at once to resign from the craft. As a matter of fact, King George was never initiated.

Apart from religion and law, the king is bound rigidly by many rules, both social and political. For instance, on becoming the monarch he must immediately withdraw from any clubs to which he has hitherto belonged; and, again, he never writes a personal letter to anyone outside his immediate personal circle; all his other private correspondence is conducted through secretaries.

Invites Himself

Again, according to rule, he must not accept any invitation to dine or stay with one of his subjects. On the contrary, when, for instance, he wishes to stay with Lord Derby in order to see the Grand National race run at Liverpool, he has to invite himself.

The king's position toward the law is also somewhat anomalous. As a general theory, he is regarded as above the law; in practice, however, he has to obey it like anyone else. He is not in a position to play any tricks with the recognized legal system of the country.

He can issue, with the advice of his ministers, royal proclamations which have the force of law; but the proclamation is only binding so far as it is based upon an existing statute.

He cannot set up private tribunals, nor can he add to the jurisdiction of a court. And by a special act of Parliament it has also been decided that the king, if he were to lose a suit brought against him by the revenue authorities, would be liable to pay all costs On the other hand, a subject cannot sue the king except by what is known as a "petition of right," leave to issue which has to be obtained from the attorney general.

Can't Break Law

The king, according to the law of the land, cannot possibly commit an offence. Any wrong or injury suffered by a subject at his hands is attributed to the "mistakes of his advisers."

Therefore it happens that the king is the only person in Great Britain who cannot arrest a suspected felon, even if he caught a burglar entering Buckingham palace. The reason for this is that no action for wrongful arrest could be brought against him, and hence if the man caught were proved innocent it would be a case of a wrong without a remedy.

The king cannot impose any taxation without first securing the consent of the House of Commons. So severe ts this restriction that the king cannot create any new post, with new fees, or any new fees for existing posts, because this would be regarded as equivalent to new taxation. The good old days of the Stuarts have gone, when King Charles could raise taxes how and when he pleased.

authorized January 8 will be sold as needed.

The sale of the amount stipulated will be hurried as much as possible, as City Attorney Ray L. Morrow stated the bond market was in good condition at the present time and many other municipalities were going to issue bonds this spring, so the sooner Glendale's bonds were on the market, the better the chance would be of an immediate sale.

Councilmen Clash

A lively passage of words between Councilman Sam Davis and other members of the council developed when Councilman Asa Hall moved that approximately $16,000 be transferred to other funds from the street fund. For some months past Councilman Davis has objected strenuously to "robbing" the street fund, as he calls it, and evidently looked upon this as the last straw.

Despite his objections, the ordinance was passed, with only one vote—his own—registered against it. It provides for the employment of fourteen new firemen and the purchase of two Moreland trucks for the street department, as well as taking care of other small matters.

Up to Commission

Matters affecting the zoning of the city and the opening and widening of streets are left as far as possible to the new city planning commission, the ordinance establishing which was offered by Councilman Kimlin this morning.

It is expected that the members of this commission will be appointed this week by the mayor and members fo the council.

Ireland to Give Bonus To Home Builders

DUBLIN, March 6.—With Ireland facing a housing shortage, the Dail is planning to grant a bonus to home builders. From a $1,500,000 fund it is proposed to grant subsidies of $300 for three-room houses, $400 for four rooms and $500 for five rooms. Local authorities throughout the Free State are planning to grant bonuses not greater than those the Free State offers, as well as to pass legislation spreading payment of the building and land costs over a period of nineteen years.

Phoenix Suspects Espee Of Isolation Scheme

In this petition, copies of which were received by the Arizona Corporation commission recently, friends of the Tucson, Phoenix & Tidewater line see a deepening of the alleged plot to block the building of the new road, which was proposed as a connecting link between the El Paso & Southwestern and the Santa Fe system, placing Phoenix on the main line operating from El Paso to Los Angeles and the coast.

Claim Tokio Unable to Stand Airplane Attack

TOKIO, March 6.—The latest feature of the campaign to move the capital from Tokio to Kobe or Kyoto, the ancient capital, is the claim of Dr. Shinkichi Uyssugi, a professor at the Imperial University, that Tokio cannot be defended from an air attack. He also declares Tokio is too far from the geographical center of Japan and lacks sufficient historical and spiritual associations.

COOLIDGE DENIES OIL LEASE WIRES

President Issues Statements In Which He Explains Two Telegrams

into the inquiry today through the discovery of a telegram he sent to E. B. McLean, wealthy Washington publisher, at Palm Beach, last January.

This telegram was read into the records of the Senate public lands committee shortly after it went into session this morning to examine a new batch of about seventy-five telegrams secured from the Western Union and Postal files:

"Washington, Jan. 12.

"E. B. McLean,
"Palm Beach, Fla.

"Prescott is away. Advise Slemp, with whom I shall confer. Acknowledge.

"CALVIN COOLIDGE."

Coolidge Explains

"Within a few moments after word reached the White House that the telegrams had been made public, President Coolidge issued the following explanation of the message:

"The telegram referred to the district commissionership. Samuel J. Prescott is Republican city chairman and the president desired to confer with him regarding District (of Columbia) matters."

Shortly before noon the White House issued another statement explaining the February 12 telegrams which the president sent to McLean. It follows:

"The telegram sent to Mr. McLean on February 12 was in regard to a message from Mr. McLean congratulating the president on his Lincoln birthday address in New York. The telegram exchanged was similar to others received and sent out in that same connection. It amounted simply to an exchange of amenities."

Makes Correction

After first announcing that the February 12 telegram sent to McLean was in reply to a congratulatory message on the president's Lincoln birthday speech, the White House this afternoon discovered a mistake and issued another statement which said:

"The telegram sent to Mr. McLean under date of February 12 was in answer to a telegram received from Mr. McLean congratulating the president on his statement with respect to the Senate resolution calling for the resignation of Edwin Denby as secretary of the navy.

"Owing to the date of the telegrams, it was first thought it was related to the president's Lincoln day address in New York.

Many Messages

"A number of congratulatory messages were received in connection with both the statement on the Robinson resolution and the New York speech. An examination of the White House files after issuance of the original statement disclosed, however, that the McLean message related to the Denby matter."

The telegram, it was shown, was sent to the president on the day after McLean was examined at Palm Beach by Senator Walsh (on January 11) in which McLean revealed for the first time that the $100,000 in checks he loaned to ex-Secretary of the Interior Fall were returned uncashed.

A few minutes after this telegram was read into the records, another message from the president to McLean at Palm Beach was read. It follows:

"Washington, Feb. 2, 1924.

"E. B.McLean,
"Palm Beach, Fla.

"Thank you for your kind message. You have always been most considerate. Mrs. Coolidge joins me in kindest regards to yourself and Mrs. McLean.

"CALVIN COOLIDGE."

Denies "Mission"

The first Coolidge message was sent at the time his secretary, C. Bascom Slemp, was in Palm Beach on a trip that he last week denied was a "mission," but which he said was purely a vacation. A second was sent only a short time before McLean returned to Washington in response to advices from his representatives here that he had better return immediately because of the imminence of his being subpoenaed before the investigating committee.

There was a dramatic stir in the crowded room when the Coolidge messages were read. The greatest throng that has yet attended the hearings jammed the big room to capacity in anticipation of hearing more secret telegrams read and gave an audible gasp and then dead silence as the first message was read.

Not Told to All

Not all the members of the committee were present when the first message, January 11, advising McLean to confer with Slemp, and an immediate buzz ran around as Senator Walsh read the message slowly. Members of the committee said this message was not disclosed to all the committee yesterday when the telegrams were gone over in secret session behind closed doors.

The investigators were unable to find McLean's answer to President Coolidge's January 12 message, which Mr. Coolidge requested McLean to "acknowledge."

Rotary Club Observes Canned Foods Week at Luncheon Today Noon

Canned food week was fittingly observed by the Glendale Rotary club at its luncheon today in the Tuesday Afternoon club. J. Herbert Smith, who holds the classification of grocer, was in charge of the arrangements and he introduced O. E. Seegelkern, Southern California manager of the California Packing corporation as the speaker of the day.

A menu composed of canned fruits and other Del Monte products was most tastily prepared by the clubwomen, following which the routine business was dispensed with and the meeting turned over to Mr. Smith. He said that his classification was most important because people have to eat to live and he provides the food. He also said he had incorporated the slogan of Rotary in business, "He profits most who serves the best."

Tells of Canned Heat

Mr. Seegelkern told of the discovery of the heat method of canning by a French scientist during the Napoleonic war and he added it now represents five billion cans production annually and amounts to a billion dollars in the world trade.

William Hunter and A. R. Eastman were named delegates to the San Jose district conference of Rotary International after F. J. W. Henry told of the importance of attending this event. President George Karr is a member of the credentials committee, it was announced.

"Glendale—50,000 population stickers" were given club members by W. E. Hewitt, president of the Chamber of Commerce. Harvey Cheesman, Boy Scout executive, was a guest and called attention to the school for Scout leaders at the Harvard High school this week end, and President Karr called attention to the world flight starting from Clover field, Santa Monica, March 16.

Visitors Present

Visitors included Elliot Wyman, Fred Ortman, Herb Ecclestone, Los Angeles; William Ewing, W. F. Creller, Pasadena; Theodore Krabbenhoft, Davenport, Ia.; Dr. John Sims, North Platte, Neb.; G. C. Hall, Winslow, Ariz.; Will Russell, San Francisco; J. Will Johnson, Pueblo, Colo.; Luis Rubide, Grand Forks, N. D.; A. B. Harn, Tulsa, Okla., and A. E. Sichanbean, Marquette, Mich.

Sam Joaquin Valley Banks Are Sold Out

FRESNO, March 6.—The valley bank and its eight branches have been taken over by its joint purchasers, the Pacific Southwest Trust and Savings bank and the Bank of Italy. The bank at Fresno and its branches at Coalinga, Biola and Kerman went to the Pacific Southwest bank and the Selma, Reedley, Sanger, West Fresno and Monterey branches to the Bank of Italy. The sale was made under the supervision of the state banking department.

San Diego Graciously Returns Orange Prize

SAN DIEGO, March 6.—First prize of $500 for the best exhibit at the recent orange show held at San Bernardino has been returned to the show by the winner, the farm bureau of San Diego county. The county board of supervisors, in explaining its action, said that severe damage sustained by the exhibit buildings in a windstorm made it seem necessary to return the prize money in order that the sum might be applied to repair expenses.

RADIO ABANDONED

The proposal to establish a powerful radio broadcasting station at Delhi was abandoned when it was found that the planned 500-word news programs, if translated into India's many languages, would require twenty-four hours to transmit.

PLAN INQUIRY ON FLOOD SITUATION

Advancement Association to Make Investigation of Conditions Here

Flood control largely concerned the Glendale Advancement association at today's luncheon meeting in the Harriett Mae tea room on East Harvard street, a resolution being adopted empowering President C. W. Ingledue to appoint a committee to thoroughly investigate conditions and report.

The following committee was appointed: Dr. Henry R. Harrower, chairman; C. A. Fisher and R. J. Brown.

A resolution was adopted thanking the directors of the Ambrosini Hotel corporation for their successful efforts in securing a hotel for the northeast corner of East Broadway and Glendale avenue.

Thank Realty Board

A resolution was adopted thanking the Glendale Realty board for their co-operation in pledging the last $12,000 needed to assure the success of the project.

A resolution was adopted expressing it as the sense of the association that Substation No. 4 of the Glendale postoffice, now located on East Broadway, be discontinued upon completion of the new main postoffice and relocated wherever in Glendale it be most needed.

A resolution was adopted requesting the City Council to see that the trees along Glendale avenue are cared for during the paving of that street.

Dr. Henry R. Harrower read a letter addressed to Supervisor Henry W. Wright of the fifth district, Los Angeles county, and a reply from Supervisor Wright, regarding the appropriation of state funds for the maintenance of San Fernando road.

Horse, 53 Years Old, Still Does Light Work

BLOOMSBURG, Pa., March 6.—Clover, believed to be the oldest horse in the country, recently observed his 53rd birthday anniversary in his stall on a farm near here. Clover is apparently in the best of health and shows few of the infirmities his advanced age would indicate. However, he takes things easy nowadays, passing his declining years drawing a country minister about his parish. He does no heavy work. Clover raced for more than twenty years, but his only public showing since then was in 1922, when he was sent to the New York horse show for exhibition.

Boy Tries to Reach American in Row Boat

LIVERPOOL, March 6.—American immigration authorities have been saved some labor by Mersey life-savers.

The life-savers picked up a small scull in difficulties in the mouth of the Mersey. The sole occupant in the boat was Marcus Hill, aged fifteen, of Birkenhead. He tearfully explained that he had set out for America when overcome by the hostility of the wild waves.

Marcus won't bother the American immigration officials until he has a chance to try his venture again with a larger boat.

NEW WHEELBARROW

The homely wheelbarrow was supposedly invented by Leonardo da Vinci, painter, sculptor and engineer, back in 1470, and it has not been improved upon in essentials since then. But Joseph J. Venden Plas of Green Bay, Wis., has taken da Vinci's idea for the chassis and instead of mounting on it the usual box, has fitted it with a concrete mixer, and the United States has assured him that the idea will be protected by patent.

MEDINA, Ohio, March 6.—William Blair, 71, took out a license to wed recently, he told the marriage record clerk that his occupation is "everything." The new Mrs. Blair is 63 years old.

U. S. DEVICE AIDS BRITAIN'S PHONES

Party Line Unused Across Pond for Fear Others Would 'Listen In'

LONDON, March 6.—American efficiency may speed up English telephone systems.

The telephone is still practically undeveloped in England, as compared with America, and the Postoffice Department is now negotiating with an American concern for the use of an American device to increase the use and capacity of English telephones.

The party line is as yet unknown iin England, as the user of the telephone demands absolute secrecy in his conversations and refuses to use a telephone that his neighbor may listen in on. The British government is now considering a device owned and manufactured by the International Telephone company of Columbus, Ohio, by which party-line telephones can be made secret lines. The device is such that when one party lifts his receiver all other parties on the line are cut off until the receiver is again replaced. The operator may also disconnect any party on the line. When the party line is in use an indicator shows on every instrument on the line showing that it is in use, and when the line is cleared the indicator shows that it is again open. It is also possible for the operator to ring up any party subscriber even though his receiver is off the hook.

Considered Favorably

The American device has been erected in the government research laboratories, under the direction of David P. Moore, of Washington, D. C., and C. A. Smith, of Columbus, Ohio, representing the Columbus concern, and it has been the subject of considerable investigation on the part of the British telephone engineers, who are understood to be considering it favorably.

American methods would undoubtedly be a great boon to the telephone in England. London, with a population of nearly eight million, has only 400,000 telephones. Shopping by telephone has not yet been developed, and many business firms refuse to transact business over the telephone. The letter and the telegram are used to a far greater extent in England than the telephone, and it is only recently that the telephone has come into popular use in newspaper work. Telephonic inquiries are politely ignored by many English people who feel that the telephone is not an instrument of social dignity.

Legion Chief Urges Members to Register

SAN FRANCISCO, March 6.—Members of the American Legion are urged by Commander James F. Collins to register for the coming elections in a message just issued.

"We must raise the percentage of votes cast for all elections from the disgraceful and dangerous ratio that now prevails, approximately 30 per cent of the registered voting power," the state head warns.

In pursuance of this policy Commander Collins has sent his personal representative, Captain S. N. Dancey on a tour of the state to assist local commanders in securing a full registration of war veterans.

Invalid Held for Operating Barroom

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., March 6.—A complete barroom, elaborately equipped to serve liquor in a single glass or in wholesale quantities, operated by Ernest Greer, an invalid, recently was discovered by local prohibition agents near Brookwood, Ala.

Greer was removed to the county jail on a stretcher. His lower limbs are paralyzed as a result of an accident some months ago. Officers quoted him as saying he had no other means of earning a living.

Agents conducting the raid said they confiscated sixty bottles of home brew and a quantity of whisky, together with all the furnishings used in an old-time barroom.

Britain to Have Two More 'Plane Carriers

LONDON, March 6. The British admiralty is considering a proposal to convert two of its biggest light cruisers, the Courageous and the Glodious, into naval aircraft carriers, bringing the number of these up-to-date carriers in active commission when completed to three.

The two ships will have to be reconstructed practcially from the water-line, and the reconstruction work will take several months to complete.

Critics are asking whether it would not be cheaper to build two entirely new ships.

Reds and Agrarians in Bulgaria Active

SOFIA, March 6.—Exiled communists and agrarians, banished from Bulgaria after the September uprising, are returning to the country and are planning a new revolt, according to government authorities, who are pressing enactment of a strong sedition law. Two thousand refugees are said to be in Serbia and to have participated in attacks on Bulgarian frontier towns.

Abraham Lincoln had at his finger tips every fact he ever learned.

ASK COUNTY AID TO HALT FLOODS

Supervisor Wright Inspects City Area Swept by Tuesday's Storm

the next rainy season, and the principal obligation of the city will then be to prevent outbreaks of fire that would again wipe off the vegetation from the watershed adjacent to the city.

"It is unfortunate that no adequate provision for handling the Sycamore Canyon flood waters was made when that section of Glendale was subdivided," said Mr. Reagan. "The city officials, in securing right of way for such a channel, and in planning to depress and pave Sycamore Canyon road from curb to curb, with curbings sufficiently high to carry the water, are on the right track.

Natural Flood Channel

"If the flood waters of Sycamore Canyon can be handled with the same success as those of Verdugo Canyon are now handled by the Los Angeles county flood control channel, which runs east and west across North Glendale and dumps into the Los Angeles river, the problem will be solved.

"The Los Angeles river is the logical carrier of flood waters, which must be diverted into regular channels and led to it, otherwise Glendale may suffer the greatest catastrophe in its history."

Property Owners Urge Council to Secure Relief

An echo of the flood of Tuesday afternoon, when a cloudburst in the San Rafael hills sent a flood of water raging down Sycamore canyon which inundated large portions of the city adjacent to Sycamore canyon road, was heard at the meeting of the City Council this morning when petitions and verbal requests of property owners in that section were heard asking for immediate relief from the menace of further flood waters.

V. B. Stone, city manager, was delegated to confer in person with members of the Los Angeles County Flood Control commission and bring the engineers out to look over the ground with the idea of getting action on the proposition as soon as possible. Mr. Stone will confer with the county authorities either this afternoon or tomorrow morning. Supervisor Henry Wright was conducted over the flooded area yesterday afternoon, and has first-hand knowledge of the situation.

Present Petition

A petition signed by A. C. Burrell, 1113 East Harvard street and twenty-nine other property owners of that section, asked that immediate relief be given.

R. Belcher, 605 West Colorado street, appeared in person and asked that a spillway four feet deep and ten feet wide be constructed in the southern part of the city as part of the scheme.

S. C. Hahne, of Los Angeles, also addressed the council regarding the dangerous practice of dumping rubbish and other waste materials into the channels provided for the disposal of flood waters.

"The condition is a serious one and should be attended to immediately," said Councilman C. E. Kimlin, when moving that the city manager get in touch with the flood control commission at once. "We have discussed this matter several times, but no action has been taken by the county authorities. I believe that we should insist that they look over the ground at once and that their engineers should devise a comprehensive scheme for the relief of these people in this area."

Charge Obstruction

In this respect there was a lengthy communication read from the property holders on Boynton avenue regarding an alleged obstruction placed in the natural drainage way by E. V. Jellison, 1234 South Boynton avenue.

The city attorney was instructed to inform the people interested that it was a matter of a civil suit or amicable agreement between themselves and Mr. Jellison, as the city had no power to act in the matter, the obstruction being on private property, and not affecting the city's interest as a corporation.

The City Council, according to the declaration of the councilmen this morning, is going to co-operate in every way possible with the flood control commission in giving relief to the people whose homes are threatened by a repetition of the flood of Tuesday.

Speeder Breaks Two Bottles When Halted

Motor Officers Collins and Devine reported at headquarters last night that as they stopped W. N. Connell, 622 East Colorado street, on Brand boulevard for speeding, he threw two bottles out of his car smashing them on the pavement.

After signing a speed ticket he was allowed to proceed on his way home.

BLAME PARENT IF BOY GOES WRONG

Not Enough Father and Son Spirit In Homes, Says Syracuse Pastor

SYRACUSE, N. Y., March 6.—Ministers whose sons "go wrong" are themselves responsible.

So declares Rev. John E. Miles, prominent Syracuse Baptist divine. He says:

"Ministers, like many other professional and business men, are inclined to neglect their homes and families for those whom they are trying to serve.

"My solution of the apparent 'wayward' tendency of children of 'good families' would be a greater amount of the 'father and son' spirit in the home.

"I have a boy of my own and know the problems the average man, whether minister or doctor or merchant, is up against.

"I intend to see my boy reared in the right way, with his father as his companion and best friend. Anything my son is interested in I am whether I am or not.

Advice to Mothers

"Mothers should take their daughters into their confidence if they expect their girls to be what they want them to be.

"Many a broken heart is caused because the rights and obligations to children are not respected by the parents."

Prof. George A. Wilson, head of the department of philosophy and psychology, Syracuse university, sees the need of more home restrictions for both boys and girls in the lessons of every-day occurrences. He said:

"There is nothing unusual about the children of ministers or well-to-do families 'going wrong.'

"So much is made of the actions of university students when there is no call for it. Out of 5000 or 6000 men and women there are bound to be some who won't live up to what people expect of them.

"The parents should curb the activities of their children more, so that when they grow up they will know the difference between what they ought and ought not to do."

Women's League Says K. K. K. Is Contriving

FORT WORTH, March 6.—The alleged scheme of the Ku Klux Klan Women's Auxiliary to dominate the National League of Protestant Women as a political measure has been effectually squelched, according to Mrs. E. J. Roth of Houston, national secretary of the Protestant League, who bitterly denounced the reputed attemp of the Klan women to "steal" the league membership.

Mrs. Roth, who immediately upon learning of the alleged attempted "theft" of the ladies of the Klan, issued a warning to the league that to link with the Klan women would mean destruction of the league.

Mrs. A. B. Cloud of Dallas, "Queen Kleagle" of the Women of the Ku Klux Klan, it is charged, has been the "master mind" that connived to swing over the league to the Klan auxiliary.

Multiplied Crimes to Beget Death Sentence

MONTGOMERY, Ala., March 6.—Apparently dissatisfied with a short sentence for forgery, Clarence Bailey, after reaching the state penitentiary, killed a fellow convict following a quarrel between the two. For this his short term was stretched to a life sentence.

Still not satisfied, Bailey recently stabbed James Culpepper, another prisoner, to death with a crude stiletto of his own make, and a jury in circuit court here has decided he must pay for this, his third flaunt at the law, with his life.

In Europe a majority of people live near or over their places of business.

OLD MINER'S DEATH RECALLS GOLD ERA

'Lafe' Fyffe Made and Lost Several Millions in Colorado Camps

By MICHAEL F. DACEY
For International News Service

DENVER, March 6.—Romantic tales of the huge fortunes taken from the mines of Colorado were revived here with announcement of the death at Cripple Creek of W. L. (Lafe) Fyffe, old-time prospector, who was reputed to have made a total of $5,000,000 in the heyday of mining activity in this state—and spent it all.

Fyffe was virtually broke when he died, and for the last few years had been employed in the state house of representatives.

Fyffe, who was 65 years old, was known to almost every "old-timer" in Colorado. He lived in the mining camp when history was in the making and had a foremost part in the making of much of it. He was typical of the rapidly disappearing prospector of pioneer days, and his experiences and exploits have figured in numerous fiction stories of the early days of mining in the Rocky Mountain region.

Although silent and taciturn until acquaintanceship had ripened into friendship, Fyffe loved to dwell upon the days when the west was young. His lack of frugality probably prevented him from being one of the richest men in Colorado. But "Lafe" Fyffe considered it a disgrace to keep money.

"Made to Spend"

"Money was made to spend," was his motto, and he spent with a lavish hand. In the boom days of Leadville and Cripple Creek Fyffe squandered fortune after fortune.

"I'm not happy unless I'm tramping the hills, with a pick on my shoulder and my grub on a packhorse," he frequently told friends. "I feel uncomfortable with so much money. I've got to get rid of it."

Denver acquaintances declared that when Fyffe sold four claims to the famous Portland Mining company for $500,000 he bought the finest mansion in Cripple Creek. He stocked it with furniture from Europe, costing many thousands of dollars, and hung out a "Welcome All' sign. When some of his guests brought disrepute upon the palatial home by taking advantage of Fyffe's wholehearted hospitality the prospector put them out, wrecked the house and furniture with an axe and then deeded the place for a "consideration of $1."

Six months later Fyffe was "broke again."

Started as Boy

Fyffe started his prospecting career at the age of 14, and in the early mining days, when claim-jumping was extensive, he is said to have protected the Queen of Hills mine, single-handed, against members of the Annie Lee and Doubtful outfits. The fight for the Queen of Hills claim resulted in the designation of that section of Alma county as Battle Mountain.

When Fyffe was 18 years old he took a fortune out of the Help Mine, on Mount Lincoln, one of the highest mine claims ever worked, it having an elevation of 14,280 feet above sea level.

A few years later the prospector lost his right eye in a mine explosion.

Faro bank and poker in the noted gambling resorts of the Leadville and Cripple Creek camps are said to have taken most of Fyffe's money. To friends he often related stories of fortunes changing hands over night at the gaming tables.

The old prospector in late years bemoaned the decadence of the mining game and what he termed the "present-day laziness of prospectors."

"The modern prospectors," Fyffe declared, "who prospect a mountain through a telescope ten miles away are afraid of getting their hands dirty."

CO-ED ACTS LIKE BOY AT SYRACUSE

Hair Is Cut, Conventions Avoided by New York's Enigmatic Girl

SYRACUSE, N. Y., March 6.—'Gee! I wish I were a boy!

"Then I could do as I want to and not be tied down by the foolish conventions of society."

With these thoughts uppermost in her mind and the late Dr. Mary Walker as her ideal, Miss Louise Eighmie, 17-year-old Poughkeepsie freshman co-ed and sorority girl, startled Syracuse university faculty and students when she appeared with a mannish haircut, hair trimmed close, neck shaved and a carefully brushed "part" and, to top it off, decidedly mannish clothes.

She is the only child of a Poughkeepsie alderman-at-large, and last summer registered at Yale as "'Louis' Eighmie." She was anxious to complete her studies at New Haven as a boy, but her mother at the last moment refused permission.

Louise wants to be a great surgeon. She is registered in the pre-medic course in liberal arts college.

"A Regular Girl"

Hailed as a regular girl by her sorority sisters, she is an enthusiastic athlete and a devout follower of the more strenuous sports. Even football claims her, and she cannot understand why co-eds generally should not indulge in the gridiron game.

On the campus and at her classes Miss Eighmie wears skirts. Syracuse university co-eds may not wear knickers unless actively engaged in athletics, such as skating, hockey or hiking.

Dean Jean Marie Richards, who mothers all Piety Hill co-eds, frowns on freakish innovations in co-eds' clothing, and she does not approve mannish apparel for her charges, at least in classes.

Louise has many times donned masculine attire just for the fun of it. She makes a decided impression. Many are the co-eds she has fooled.

"Dated" Co-ed

Once, posing as a fraternity man on the Hill, she made a date to take out another co-ed. The girl was willing, but at the last moment, fearing detection, with possibly a police sequel to her masquerading, Miss Eighmie cancelled the date.

But let her tell about herself.

"I hope to carve out my own career, a distinctive one, one out of the ordinary, by following the dictates of my own ambition.

"I don't care what people say. I dress to suit the wearer, not the starer.

"People tied hands and feet by silly convention are the only ones who will not approve of my actions.

"Before entering Syracuse I registered in Yale and fulfilled all entrance requirements as "'Louis" Eighmie.' I'd be there now, but mother backed out, fearing the chance of a single girl in an all-men's college too great a risk.

Envies Males

"I wish I were a man and could do as I want. Men have a better deal out of life every time—more freedom, more chance for self-development, physically and mentally, and are not tied down to society's rules every time they move a step.

"When I graduate from medical college I hope to obtain special permission from Congress to dress as a man, as Dr. Mary Walker did. She was a great advocate of the single standard of morals and a fair deal for women in education and politics alike. I admire her ideals.

"Medicine is a man's profession and should be adhered to in that manner by women. As a surgeon and specialist in children's cases, I too, hope to attain the heights Dr. Walker set for women.

"What does mamma think? Oh, well, that's different! I just wrote her about it today."

British Are Defended By Sen. Simeon Fess

COLUMBUS, Ohio, March 6.—"Great Britain has suffered extreme humiliation because of the breakdown caused by the war. If her economic situation is not remedied she must change her whole industrial career or decline," asserted United States senator Simeon D. Fess, Ohio, in an address here. "Great Britain faces the most stupendous problem of the ages, and you and I ought to be deeply concerned.

"It is not a matter of sentiment," continued Senator Fess. "The conditions prevailing were left by the war. So much of the capital of the Old World has been driven to our country that we have more than we need. But it cannot go back. There is no economic stability over there.

"If the separation of Britain and France were caused by religion, race or even chiefly by politics, the difference could be composed in conference. But the difference is economic, and the economic law is as certain as the gravitation law. It cannot be changed by entering into agreements."

"Senator Fess declared it is unfair to charge Great Britain is "a dollar chaser," or France is purely militaristic and is doing what Germany did before the World war. He said British statesmen are concerned with the perpetuity of the life of their country.

Combined population of New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Maryland, while smaller than that of Poland, possesses more automobiles than the entire world outside of the United States.

GIRLS LEARN HOW TO MANAGE HOME

Motherhood Being Taught by Continuation School in Illinois System

By HAROLD D. ROBINSON
For International News Service

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., March 6.—Matrimony, starting with the hope chest and going through the honeymoon to household management and babies, will be studied by Illinois girls in continuation schools throughout the state if the hopes of J. F. Kolb, director of the continuation school work, materialize.

Already one school in Chicago is giving the matrimonial course. Mr. Kolb expects, through the success of his school, the first of its kind in America, to induce boards of education in other cities to establish like courses.

Girls between the ages of 14 and 17 are enrolled in the Chicago school. They come from an industrial district where early marriages are the rule. They are girls who have been forced to discontinue regular school work because of the economic condition of their families, and they attend the continuation school eight hours a week in time allowed by their employers.

Told Real Problems

Dr. Mildred Young, who was formerly a school teacher, and who has also practiced medicine a number of years, is instructor of the class. She attempts to give the girls a real understanding of the problems of matrimony, Kolb explained.

Beginning with the hope chest, she teaches the things a girl should do in preparation for matrimony, including the accumulation of a little "nest egg" to help found the home. Lessons in hygiene designed to build strong, healthy bodies that will bear the burdens of motherhood and the household, are given.

The physiological phases of the marriage relations are made clear to the students, and the instructions cover pre-natal influences and care during pregnancy.

Real babies are used during the training in infant care. The pupils are required to perfrom every operation in the care of the child—bathing the babies, feeding them, amusing them and putting them to sleep.

Problems of household managements are also considered, and the girls study the furnishing of the home and the preparation of balanced meals at low cost.

Training Needed

The need for training in marriage has been demonstrated conclusively by this first school according to Kolb. The influence of the school has reached out into the community and has resulted in an uplifting of home life there, he stated. The girls carry their lessons to their mothers, who had no such training, and often schoolroom methods are adopted in the homes.

The majority of girls enter matrimony soon after leaving school, making it their life work, yet few have any comprehensive training for it, Kolb pointed out. The large number of failures may be, in part, attributed to this, he said. Divorces, unhappy homes, children with improper starts and mothers with broken health are some of the things the matrimonial course will help prevent, in the director's belief.

URGES HAWAIIANS TO LIVE SIMPLY

Customs of Fathers Should Be Maintained, Preacher Tells His People

By JOHN F. STONE
For International News Service.

HONOLULU, March 6.—The native folk of Hawaii must turn back toward the natural conditions of living which their grandparents knew if their existence is to be maintained; they must give up the crowded life of the city tenement districts and seek their living in the soil; they msut cease having canned salmon at the grocery store and return to the nets of their ancestors.

So says Rev. Akaiku Akana, chaplain of the Territorial Senate, pastor of the oldest Hawaiian church on the island of Oahu, and a recognized leader of his people.

A graduate of Harvard Theological seminary and a careful student of sociological and economic problems, Rev. Akana is by no means pessimistic as to the future of his people. He believes the success which has attended the effort to rehabilitate the Hawaiian people under government supervision on the Hawaiian homes lands at Kaunakakai, Island of Molokai, offers the greatest incentive that has yet come to the Hawaiians of today to desert the tenement districts and return to the open spaces their forebears knew.

Lived Simple Life

"The early Hawaiians were a healthy and hardy people because they lived on simple food, mostly vegetables, with pork on special occasions. A return to this simple life is necessary for them," he asserts. "The Hawaiians were children of the great outdoors. The rain, the sun, the soil and the sea were a part of their very existence, and the simple grass but sufficed for shelter. They cultivated the taro, the potato and other vegetables, spent much of their time in fishing, and their recreations were surf-riding and other outdoor sports."

Akana is a veritable giant of a man, a splendid s pecimen of Hawaiian physique. He believes in hard and continuous work, physical as well as mental. Every day at 4 o'clock he closes his study door in the old coral church on King street and goes to his home in one of the valley districts of the city, where he dons overalls and works at hard labor until dinner time. Much concrete and masonry work about his house testifies to the ruggedness of his labor. Much as he loves home life, Rev. Mr. Akana is a bachelor.

Pictorial Language

"It is a pity," he adds, "that the young Hawaiians are not using their language more. It is a wonderful language, so simple and pictorial that abstract philosophy can be made plain to the simple minded by its use.

"One of the most valuable contributions the Hawaiians can make to civilization is their absolute freedom from race prejudice," he points out. "Because of this freedom and because they can get along with all races, the Hawaiians can help much in race adjustment and can serve as peacemakers between quarreling races. Thus we can help to bring about Christian ideals as embodied in the Golden Rule. Along with this there must be efficiency—the ability and the will to do a thing honestly and well."

PRINCESS WEDS, PEASANTS PEEVED

Little Sister's Act Thought Improper by Humble Bulgar People

CONSTANTINE STEPHANOVE
For International News Service.

SOFIA, March 6.—Bulgarian peasant folk have not yet recovered from the consternation caused by the announcement that Princess Nadejda, the second daughter of former King Ferdinand, had become engaged to the young Duke of Wurtemburg. The marriage of the couple took place on January 29, but Bulgarians are still discussing Princess Nadejda's action.

It is not that the peasants object to Princess Nadejda's choice of a husband. They are glad she has married the young Duke, who is 27 years old, handsome and dignified in bearing, and hope their life together will be long and happy.

What astonished the simple Bulgarian people and set their tongues wagging was that Princess Nadejda married before her older sister, Princess Eudosia. Among the peasants it is the rule that none of the younger daughters of the family may marry until the first-born daugher has taken a husband. Girls who break the rule are often outcast from their families.

The feeling of the peasants is exemplified by the action of the peasant maid who attended Princess Nadya, as she is affectionately known. Upon hearing that her mistress was engaged, the maid exclaimed:

"Good Lord! How could my Nadya do such a horrid thing? It's awful. In my town they would stone me if I had treated my older sister so. Poor Doxie!"

"Poor Doxie!" by which is meant Princess Eudosia, the older sister, however, does not share the dismay of the peasants. She doesn't seem to mind a bit that Nadya was first to take a husband. She participated joyously in the wedding ceremonies, helped her sister in all the wedding preparations and, after the nuptials, returned to Sofia, where she resumed alone the task of managing the household of her brother, King Boris, which she and Princess Nadejda previously had jointly performed.

Miss Spencer discovered that whether or not to bob the hair had become the dominating topic among the girls. To settle the burning issue she forbade further bobbing. The ukase is not retroactive.

Town Doubles in Size After Losing Industry

DUBOISTOWN, Pa., March 6.—This town was started forty years ago during a lumber boom and at that time was the site of many sawmills employing scores of men. Today, although the mills are gone and there is no other industry employing more than half a dozen men, the town is nearly twice as large as it was then.

NEW METAL USED IN SHENANDOAH

Duralumin Makes Airship Light and Strong for All Stress Needs

WASHINGTON, March 6.—A ten-foot length of the structural framework of the navy's huge rigid airship, the "Shenandoah," can be easily raised with a little finger, yet it is capable of bearing the weight of as many men as can perch themselves on it.

This was the verdict placed by Bureau of Standards experts, after a year's experimentation upon the girders employed in building the framework of the "Shenandoah."

Tests were conducted by these experts upon duplicates of the types of girders used in building the ship—147 in all—in which they were subjected to every known hardship which they would meet if used in an airship.

The results of these tests, it was stated, were remarkably consistent both as to type of failure and breaking loads. Practically all failures were elastic in character. They depended chiefly upon the stiffness of the material and were not the result of poor workmanship or defective material.

Made of Alloy

The importance of theses tests, the announcement stated, lies in the assurance of strength which they give to the Shenandoah, and have furnished much valuable data which will be exceedingly helpful to designing other such girders in future airship construction.

The girders were made at the naval aircraft factory in Philadelphia, and are composed of duralumin—an alloy of aluminum and copper. They are remarkably light, yet strong and durable. A ten-foot length can be easily lifted from the floor by a man's little finger and still be strong enough to support the weight of as many men as can find room to sit or stand upon it when both ends are supported.

Lightness is a necessity in airship construction, the announcement stated, as well as strength, thirteen cubic feet of gas being required to lift a pound of weight; and the Shenandoah, one of the largest airships in the world—long as a dreadnought—weighs a little more than an ordinary Pullman car.

Tests also were conducted by the bureau's experts on motor engines into the efficiency of the type of engines employed on the Shenandoah under varying altitudes and climatic conditions.

Tests Complete

These engine tests, the Bureau's announcement stated, covered all conditions of climate or altitude which the Shenandoah would be likely to encounter in any flight and permits pilots of ships employing such engines to know in advance what they may expect of their engines under certain conditions of temperature or altitudes.

Specially constructed chambers were employed by the bureau testing the effect altitudes ha upon gas engines. Air pressu was reduced in the chambers large vacuum pumps to that co responding to an altitude of 3 000 feet, while other chambe cooled to the temperature of degrees below zero (Fahrenhei were used to note the effect frigid weather on the engines.

The power of an airship engi the announcement explained, depends upon the amount of air takes in at a stroke, and this is duced by the low pressure fou at high altitudes. The tempe ture of air also affects the amou of air taken in at a stroke a both affect the richness of mixture supplied by the carbu tor and the thoroughness w which the gasoline is evaporat

Sales of Denatured Alcohol Increasing

RENO (Nev.), March 6.—Owing to the alarming use of denatured alcohol, known to drinkers as "gas" throughout Nevada and particularly among the Indians, United States Attorney George Springmeyer has requested S. C. Linsmore, state commissioner of food and drugs, to make some suggestions relative to legislation that will curb the sale of the commodity.

The only restriction on the sale of denatured alcohol at present is the federal law which requires druggists to attach to each bottle a label warning the purchaser that it contains poison and that internal use may produce blindness.

PAY TRIBUTE TO MUTUAL BENEFIT READING CIRCLE

Organization Celebrates Its Eighth Birthday; Message By Mrs. C. H. Toll

By KATHERINE V. SINKS
Of The Evening News Staff.

Calling together in her home in March, 1916, a group of women, whom she knew to be interested, Mrs. Charles H. Toll, then chairman of education of the Glendale Federation, Parent-Teacher Association, planted a seed of culture that has grown into the Mutual Benefit Reading Circle, a Glendale organization of national repute, that yesterday celebrated its eighth birthday at the Public Library.

On that day in March, 1916, Mrs. Toll was inspired with the aim of the education of motherhood for a betterment of childhood and yesterday tribute was paid to her by over 100 women.

Sends Greeting

Today Mrs. Toll is president of the Los Angeles District, California Federation of Women's clubs, and the demands on her time are many, so she was unable to be present yesterday and join in the birthday party, but she sent the following greeting:

"Beloved Circle Members, Today is reached the eighth milestone in the journey of our Circle. It is to your former leader a joy that this has not been an ephemeral thing, but that because of its fundamental character and its conduct it has had a sturdy, useful life.

"There have been losses from the Circle that have grieved us, but the lives of those beloved, earnest ones continue to shed their benign influence and we know that they have not really left us, though their physical manifestations we see no more.

Real Inspiration

"To the new members I would say, your enthusiasm has undoubtedly been an inspiration to those who have labored long and faithfully, so that you in turn shall be helpers to those who shall join the Circle.

"Everyone of you has a part to do and it is through your working together for the good of all that you will advance and spread the beneficial influence of the circle.

"May the new year of the Circle be one of great progress and benefit and happiness for all."

In addition to honoring Mrs. Toll, the Circle members, old and new, and their guests, honored Mrs. A. A. Barton, Mrs. Toll's successor, and Mrs. H. V. Henry, Mrs. Barton's successor and the present chairman.

In complimenting Mrs. Barton she was presented with a huge bouquet of pastel shaded sweetpeas. Mrs. Henry was presented with a large bouquet of pink sweetpeas, and a bouquet of pink and white sweetpeas was sent to Mrs. Toll.

Honored Guest

Mrs. Henry presided most graciously over the meeting, which was more of an informal nature than the regular weekly meetings.

She presented as specially honored guests Mrs. Barton, Mrs. Alma J. Danford, librarian; Mrs. C. E. Hutchinson, prominent club

Glendalian Innocent In Hold-up Charges

A report from Lieut. Cato of the Los Angeles police department yesterday afternoon stated that a man in a small touring car had held up three parties in Los Angeles, and that a check of the license number on the car showed that it was registered to John W. Leveain, 1024 Elm street, Glendale.

Captain W. A. Loving and Lieut. W. J. Royle questioned Leveain who was able to prove his innocence in connection with the affair. He was able to establish the fact that his car had not been moved for two days.

The local officers later informed the Los Angeles authorities that Mr. Leveain was innocent of the charges which had been implied. It is their opinion that a mistake had been made in taking the license number of the machine.

Child, 3, Injured In Automobile Accident

The 3-year-old child of Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Myers, 1906 Glenwood road, was taken to the Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital last night after being struck by a car driven by S. Snider, 1034 San Rafael street, Glendale.

The little boy was playing on the curb in front of his home, and, according to Snider's report, jumped in front of his car, and the latter could not avoid the accident. He took the boy into his car and carried him to the hospital where his wounds were dressed. They consisted principally of cuts about the head.

He was later taken to his home by the parents.

J. E. Donaldson Is Freed on Charge Of Hart's Murder

J. E. Donaldson of Glendale, a mill worker, was acquitted of the murder of E. E. Hart on the Mexican border, the night of December 30, in the case tried yesterday in San Diego, before the superior court. Only two ballots were cast by the jury, the second being unanimous for acquittal.

Hart was choked to death in a drunken brawl of several prisoners confined in a small jail on the American side of the border, kept by San Diego county officials for preserving order on the troublesome outskirts of Tia Juana.

Donaldson was first tried several weeks ago, the jury standing six for conviction and six for acquittal.

REALTORS PLEDGE FUND FOR HOTEL

Balance of $12,000 Raised to Complete Financing of $402,000 Building

The erection of the hotel that has been planned for the site at the northeast corner of East Broadway and Glendale avenue is assured by the action of the members of the Glendale Realty Board, who yesterday subscribed the balance of $12,000 necessary to insure that the work will be started.

C. W. Ingledue, one of the leaders behind the project, presented figures at the weekly meeting of the board showing the estimated income and expense in connection with the running of the establishment, as well as other figures dealing with the time required to pay off the obligations that the Ambrosini Hotel company, promoting the plan, will have to assume.

Change in Plans

The cost of the building, Mr. Ingledue stated, is to be $402,000, and the value of the site which it will occupy is figured at $225.-000. The original plan to build a hotel with four wings has been amended to one that calls for the erection of a building with two wings, five stories high, built in such a manner as to permit the addition of four extra stories if necessity demands. The hotel will face 236 feet on East Broadway and 129 feet on Glendale avenue.

Seven contractors have bid on the hotel, the lowest bid being submitted by Kinney & Westerhouse of Los Angeles, who are at present constructing a reservoir in the Grand View district. Propositions that are now in the hands of the hotel company, Mr. Ingledue declared, are such as to promise that the hotel will become a paying investment from the time it is completed and give the assurance that the obligations assumed by the company can all be paid off within the fifteen year period allowed under the present plans.

Will Start Soon

With the assurance that all the finances required are available, the legal requirements will be fulfilled, and as soon as these shall have been completed the subscriptions already made will be called in and actual construction will be started. This part of the work is expected to take about three or four weeks, and immediately following the receipt of the official approval of the project the bids will be awarded and the work of erecting the hotel will begin.

The company has not yet adopted any name for the proposed hotel, preferring to leave this point to be settled by the vote of the stockholders at some future date.

Dr. Paul J. Holmes is tyler-elect of the Glendale lodge, No. 1289, B. P. O. Elks.

Realty Board Will Occupy New Location

TAX FILINGS FOR TWO MONTHS SET RECORD IN U. S.

Number of Income Returns Shows Increase of 56 Per Cent

Income tax returns filed in the Southern California internal revenue district for the first two months of the filing period, beginning January 1 and ending March 1, established a nation-wide record in point of percentage of increase.

Special reports sent to Washington yesterday by Collector Rex B. Goodcell showed that in number of returns filed an increase of 56 per cent was made, and that the gain in income tax receipts was 42 per cent, comparing January and February with the corresponding months of 1923.

During January and February 56,833 returns were filed, as against 36,461 for the corresponding period of 1923, and 1,056 for 1922, a gain of 20,372 returns for 1924.

Receipts of income tax were $2,389,117.85, compared with $1,681,722.61 for the same months of 1923, an increase of 42 per cent.

Remarkable Record

"The showing made by the Los Angeles district is a truly remarkable one in view of the debate in Congress over reduction in taxes," said Collector Goodcell. "This office has been advised from Washington that the public has been misled by the daily reports of action on the new revenue bill to such an extent that the filing of returns throughout the country was brought almost to a standstill. Southern California, however, has set an example for the whole country by establishing an increase of 56 per cent in the number of returns filed, and thereby registering a new country-wide record for this district.

"There are still several days of the filing period remaining, and 225,000 returns must be filed within that time if we are not to have many delinquents. My advice is to file immediately. The new revenue bill will not affect the filing of returns this year."

Must File Returns

Under instructions received by wire from Washington yesterday by Collector Goodcell, information returns that have not heretofore been required must be filed by every corporation in Southern California that is subject to income tax. All personal service corporations are also affected by the order.

While Collector Goodcell's original instructions stated that the information returns must be filed by March 15 and cover payments made during the calendar year 1923, the time limit was later extended to June 15 in a telegram received from Commissioner Blair.

The new ruling requires all domestic corporations not specifically exempted from taxation to file returns of information on Form 1097 showing the amount of payments of dividends and distributions to stockholders who are individuals, fiduciaries or partnerships. Returns of information will also be required of resident foreign corporations to the extent that dividend payments and distributions are made to citizens or residents of the United States and domestic partnerships and fiduciaries.

Authority To Conduct Meetings In Glendale At Presbyterian Church, Starting Next Sunday Morning, Continuing Daily

Glendale Bible students and other Glendalians who are interested in Bible study will be attracted by the announcement from the Glendale Presbyterian church that Dr. William Evans, formerly of Chicago and recently of Los Angeles, will open a Bible conference Sunday morning, March 9, at 11 o'clock, which will continue daily at 3 and 7:30 o'clock, afternoons and nights, until March 23.

Dr. Evans is recognized by churchmen and Bible students as one of the most eminent Bible teachers in American churches, and Glendale church people are eagerly anticipating his arrival.

He comes to Glendale to discuss a series of most soul-stirring and vital subjects, such as "Should the Church Preach Divine Healing?" "Did Jesus Ever Claim to Be God?" "Does God Really Answer Prayers" "What Breaks Up Homes" "The Virgin Birth," "What Lies Beyond the Grave," "Exposition of Ephesians," "The Test of Christian Life," "Border Line Religion," "The Fool, Almost, but—"

In speaking of Dr. Evans' coming, an officer of the Glendale Presbyterian church says:

"Dr. Evans is recognized as an authority on Bible lore in all parts of the country. His teaching is not of a denominational character, as is evidenced by the fashion in which churches of many denominations are co-operating in bringing him to their peoples. Glendale is most fortunate in securing him, and every person in the city is cordially invited to attend all the meetings and hear his wonderful messages."

Assisting Dr. Evans will be Herbert G. Tovey, Australian tenor soloist and song leader, who will arrange musical features.

MISS PECKHAM BECOMES BRIDE OF GEO. K. BOLT

First of Spring Weddings Is Performed in Presence of Many Friends

The first of Glendale's early spring weddings took place last night, Wednesday, March 5, 1924, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Peckham at 615 North Central avenue, when their daughter, Miss Gladys Peckham, became the bride of George Kenneth Bolt, son of Mrs. John Everson of 611 North Central avenue. Over 150 invitations were issued for the wedding and reception following, and relatives and friends from Glendale, Los Angeles and other cities of the southland attended the ceremony, performed at 9 o'clock by Rev. C. M. Calderwood, pastor of the First Congregational church.

Wonderful early spring flowers and greenery were artistically combined in the decoration of the home for the affair. In the living room the fireplace was banked with greenery and blossoms, forming a beautiful background for the bridal party while the bridal service was read.

There were two bridal songs sung by Russell Blodgett of Los Angeles, accompanied by Mrs. K. E. Quitzow of Los Angeles, with violin obligato by Mrs. Frances Ennis of Los Angeles, sister of the bride. He sang "At Dawning" (Cadman) and "Because" (D'Hardelot).

Mrs. Quitzow later played the Lohengrin march for the entrance of Miss Peckham and her attendants.

White Satin Gown

Wearing a bridal gown of rich white satin, embroidered in pearls, a long, graceful veil held in fan effect by a pearl bandeau about her hair, and carrying orchids and lilies of the valley, Miss Peckham appeared a charming bride, as she entered with her father.

She was attended by her sister, Mrs. Ennis, as matron of honor; Miss Dorothy Bolt, Mr. Bolt's sister, as bridesmaid; Vassar Peckham as ring bearer, and Joan Everson as flower girl.

Mrs. Ennis wore a gown of orchid georgette crepe and carried pink roses. Miss Bolt's gown was of honey dew georgette crepe and

Edith M. Unwin Tells Charms Of Glendale to Air of Well Known Song

Glendale has been favored with numerous bursts of song in recent months, some with original music and others adapted to existing strains. The following song, modeled to fit the music of "My Old Kentucky Home," is one of the most pleasing Glendale numbers to date and sings itself readily. The author is Edith M. Unwin of the Dutton the Home Fynder organization, 308-310 South Brand boulevard.

MY LITTLE GLENDALE HOME
By EDITH M. UNWIN

The sun shines brights in my Little Glendale Home,
'Tis summer here thruout the year.
The oranges ripe and the roses are in bloom,
While the birds sweetly tell of good cheer.

CHORUS

Yes, I believe in Glendale,
And so will you some day.
Then I'll sing a song of my Little Glendale Home,
And be a booster for Glendale always.

The young folks play on the cozy cottage floor,
Merry and happy with delight.
Hard times will never come knocking at their door,
In their Little Glendale Home, so bright.

USED CAR SALE IS BIG PROBLEM BEFORE DEALER

Many Bargains Are Bein Offered Public; Change in Advertising Policy

The regular monthly luncheo of the Glendale Motor Car Dea ers' Association was held le terday noon at the Egyptian V lage cafe, with President C. Hunter presiding.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 6.—n Quentin's death house is overowded and there are prospects at the state prison's hanging faities soon will be overtaxed.

Nine men now occupy cells in e condemned men's row. Its pacity has been stretched from e, which used to be the maxiim number awaiting death.

Several of the nine may have g residence in their death cells. ey have appeals pending, farable action on which would reve them to pleasanter quarters, ile denial of their pleas will an emptying of their cells by e hangman's route.

San Quentin has two gallows, t double hangings have been re. As a result one of the galws is in a state of disrepair. ree men are scheduled to die e same date in March, but Warn James Johnston will endeavor have the courts revise the dates, he declared it will be difficult provide facilities for a triple nging.

Not alone is the death row beme overpopulated. The prison pulation is increasing at such a e that it has been necessary to ce orders for 800 double deck ds with which to fit cells in the w cell house. More than 200 nates are now quartered in the ridors of the cell houses beuse of lack of cell space. The uble-deck beds, each the width a cot, will provide space for 800 ditional prisoners, but at the e the population—now 2,900—growing they will all be occued by the end of the year. The pidly increasing population ings a problem of having enough rk to go around. The prison dustries provide employment for t 2,600. The other 300 are pt busy at odd tasks.

California not long ago reduced tomobile licenses to a flat $3 on makes of pleasure cars and ented a tax of two cents a gallon gasoline. The flat tax proved pular with motorists and the soline tax was received with farable comment, as it distributed e road tax on the road users ite equitably. Now that the sysm is working well, motorists are ed with the possibility that eir tax burden may be vastly ineased. According to the State ghway statisticians the state ould raise some $20,000,000 a year for the proposed road program, which would give California the finest highway system in the world. It is figured that this can be done by increasing the flat registration tax from $3 to $10 or $15 a year and the gasoline tax to three cents a gallon. A special commission is studying the State Highway system with a view to determining what main roads and laterals should properly constitute the State Highway system. They will recommend to the next Legislature a road program and a taxation program to carry it out. The license and gas tax plan is being considered by this body, and unless a better plan is brought forward may be recommended as the best manner of raising the required funds.

The spirit of the Argonauts still lives.

The lure of gold is as strong as in the days of the Mother Lode and the Alaska gold rushes.

But today it is through science that men seek wealth from the waste of the miners of '49. The latest development is a process through which its sponsors claim untold new wealth may be taken from the shifting sands of the sea and from the workings of abandoned mines.

Gold in extremely fine particles exists in the sands tributary to the California rivers which flow to the sea from the Mother Lode country, and also in the great worked over heaps which now mark the scenes of the activities of the forty-niners and their successors.

But no economical process of extracting this gold has ever been developed. Many ways of securing it have from time to time been advanced by inventors, but always the cost exceeded the value of the gold.

Now Charles McBride, chemist, and H. O. Jacobson and W. W. Brown, mining engineers, are claimed to have invented a process whereby the gold may be extracted at a cost low enough to provide a handsome profit through the use of mercury. This is an elaboration of the present use of mercury in the mining industry and, according to E. N. McNowan, who is interested in practical tests of the invention, it is past the experimental stage.

Dinner Stories

A man and a woman entered a cafe.

"Do you want oysters, Louise?" asked the man, as he glanced over the bill of fare.

"Yes, George," answered the woman, "and I want a hassock, too."

George nodded, and as he handed the waiter his written order he said:

"Bring a hassock for the lady."

"Yes, sir," answered the waiter, "one hassock."

A moment later the waiter, apparently puzzled, approached the man and, leaning over him, said:

"Excuse me, sir, but I have only been here two days and do not want to make any mistakes. Will the lady have the hassock broiled or fried?"

An amusing conversation between the proprietor of an optician's and an aged darkey who was just leaving the place with a pair of new spectacles is related to us.

As the old fellow neared the door his eye lighted upon an extraordinary looking instrument conspicuously placed upon a counter. The venerable negro paused for several moments to gaze in open-mouthed wonder at this thing, the like of which he had never seen before.

After a long struggle with his curiosity he was vanquished. Turning to the optician, he asked: "What is it, boss?"

"That is an opthalmometer," replied the optician in his gravest manner.

"Sho," muttered the old man to himself, as he backed out of the door, his eyes still fastened upon the curious looking thing on the counter. "Sho, dat's what I was afeared it was!"

FEAR RACIAL FEELING OVER PLAY

Latest Work Of O'Neill Study in Realism

Mary Blair and (insert) Helen MacKellar

NEW YORK, March 6.—Fear is being expressed that production of the new play by Eugene O'Neill, twice winner of the Pulitzer prize for the best American play of the year, will seriously aggravate racial feeling in this country, but the producers are going ahead with their plans.

The play is called "All God's Chillun Got Wings." It is a study in realism having to do with the relation of whites and negroes.

Some difficulty was experienced in obtaining an actress to fill the leading feminine roll, because the leading man is a negro. Miss Helen MacKellar absolutely refused to consider the part. Miss Mary Blair was finally persuaded to take it.

Another of O'Neill's plays, "The Emperor Jones," had a negro as leading man, and it was a success, but white women were not required for any of the important parts.

O'Neill has achieved fame as a realist. His "Annie Christie" won the Pulitzer prize last year. Previously he had written "Beyond the Horizon," another winner, and "The Hairy Ape."

Timely Views on World Topics

"MONEY NOW HIDDEN IS NEEDED TO MAKE AMERICAN PROSPERITY SUCCESSFUL"

"The most extraordinary and encouraging fact concerning America today," said Chauncey Depew recently, "is that labor and capital are arriving at their rights under proper partnership. Labor has advanced within the last two years to a larger share and a more important voice in the management of the enterprises upon which it depends and which depend upon it. Two labor banks have been established in New York under the management of labor, and each starts with deposits of $5,000,000. The same is true in some other cities.

C. M. DEPEW

"While high wages have increased the cost, they have at the same time raised standards and practical education in the essentials of independence. The savings banks have surpassed all records, and colleges have become so overcrowded that they are finding it necessary to limit the number of their students. These conditions are not confined to the United States; they exist in Great Britain and France.

"What we need is the money which is now locked up or hidden to make this prosperity successful. The scheme of the secretary of the treasury would draw that money out and put it at work in bringing the facilities of the railroads to a needed expansion and in developing our resources.

"The purpose of this measure is halted because politicians are wondering if there are more votes in appealing to the prejudices against the rich than there are in helping everybody. Politicians argue that this public demand is not organized so as to be felt in votes. But public opinion, if resisted or bought or outraged, will organize, and that is an immediate public necessity.

"We are on the threshold of a development and prosperity which will furnish universal opportunities for the benefit of both labor and capital."

Uncle Wiggily Bedtime Stories

— BY HOWARD R. GARIS —

UNCLE WIGGILY AND BILLY'S BUMPER

"Look out, Billie Bushytail! Be careful, or you'll bump into Grandfather Goosey Gander!"

The rabbit gentleman, who thus called to the little squirrel boy, was out on the coasting hill. Billie was sliding down the snow on his Christmas sled. Near the bottom of the hill was Grandpa Goosey.

"And you'll bump into him if you aren't careful," warned Uncle Wiggily.

"I'll be careful," shouted back Billie.

Well, he really intended to be, but his sled slipped to one side and, the next moment, he had knocked down the goose gentleman.

"Quack! Quack!" cried Grandpa Goosey. "Who did that?"

"I did—with by bumper—I mean with my sled, but I didn't mean to," chattered Billie, the squirrel.

"Well, then, I'll forgive you," quacked Grandpa Goosey, as Billie helped him to his feet. "But it is the first time I ever heard a sled called a bumper."

But ever after that, this was the name given to Billie's sled. All the animal boys and girls—and even Uncle Wiggily—called it Billie's bumper, because the little squirrel chap so often bumped into other animals while he was coasting on the hill.

No matter how straight Billie started down the coasting hill, and no matter how much room he had, if there was any one in front of him almost always he would bump into them. Of course he did not hurt them very much, for most of those who saw him coming ran out of the way. But Billie bumped them all the same.

"It will get so after a while, Billie," spoke Uncle Wiggily, "that you will have to slide down hill all by yourself. No one will want to coast with you."

"I'll try to be more careful," chattered the little squirrel chap.

But that very same day, while sliding down the snow hill, he ran into Aune Lettie, the lady goat, and knocked her head over horns with a big bump.

"Oh, Billie!" bleated Aunt Lettie.

"I—now—I didn't mean to!" stammered the little squirrel boy. "My bumper went crooked."

"Yes, and I went crooked, too!" laughed Aunt Lettie, for, after all, she wasn't much hurt.

"There is only one thing to do," said Uncle Wiggily, when he heard what had happened. "I must coast down a few times with Billie and teach him how to steer his bumper—I mean his sled. After a few lessons he will know how to go straight, and will not bump into his friends."

"Perhaps that will be a good idea," said Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy, the muskrat lady housekeeper. "Billie almost bumped into me yesterday."

So, after school one day, Uncle Wiggily went out on the coasting hill. Nearly all the animal boys and girls were there, and so was Billie—with his bumper.

"I am going to coast down with you, Billie, my boy," spoke the rabbit gentleman. "I am going to give you a few lessons on how to keep straight on the hill."

"Thank you, Uncle Wiggily, chattered Billie. "I shall be very grateful to you and it is exceedingly kind on your part," and the squirrel boy spoke just like a character out of a book.

Billie hauled his sled to the top of the hill and got on. Uncle Wiggily took his place behind to do the steering.

"It is very easy when once you know how," said the rabbit.

"Yes, sir," answered Billie.

Down they started on the bumper, by which I mean the sled. All of a sudden Mr. Whitewash, the kind polar bear gentleman, crossed the hill.

"Look out, we don't want to bump into him," called Uncle Wiggily, and he steered safely out of the way. Down went the sled faster and faster. "Now I will steer to the right," said the bunny gentleman, "and you will see how it is done."

Uncle Wiggily began to steer to the right, but all of a sudden Billie put out his foot and made the sled go to the left.

"Look out! Don't stop! You'll bump us into something if you aren't careful!" cried the rabbit uncle.

"That's just what I wanted to do!" chattered Billie. "There's the Woozie Wolf, waiting to nibble you. I want to bump him."

And Billie steered his sled into the Wolf, who, just then, came out on the hill from behind a tree.

"Bang!" the sled with Uncle Wiggily and Billie on bumped into the bad chap, knocking him all the way to the bottom of this hill.

"Oh, my ribs! My ribs! howled the Wolf. "They'll be sore for a week!" And so they were. But he didn't nibble the bunny.

"It's a good thing I bumped my bumper into him, isn't it?" asked the squirrel boy.

"Oh, Billie!" bleated Aunt Lettie

"Yes," answered Mr. Longears. "I guess it is easy. Steer your own way, Billie. It is better than mine." And Billie did.

Now if the wind doesn't blow the postman's whistle and make the tree think it's going to get a letter, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and the frozen carrot.

HAVE KIDNEYS EXAMINED BY YOUR DOCTOR

Take Salts to Wash Kidneys if Back Pains You or Bladder Bothers

Flush your kidneys by drinking a quart of water each day, also take salts occasionally, says a noted authority, who tells us that too much rich food forms acids which almost paralyze the kidneys in their efforts to expel it from the blood. They become sluggish and weaken; then you may suffer with a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sours, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine gets cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get sore and irritated, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night.

To help neutralize these irritating acids, to help cleanse the kidneys and flush off the body's urinous waste, get four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy here; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days, and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help flush and stimulate sluggish kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in the system so they no longer irritate, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink. By all means have your physician examine your kidneys at least twice a year.—Advertisement.

READING CIRCLE'S PARTY IS SUCCESS

Message from Mrs. C. H. Toll Is Read; Varied Program Proves Interesting and P.-T. A. worker; Mrs. Florence S. Kurtz of Los Angeles, one of the older members; Mrs. Wheetman, who enjoys the honor of having given the organization its name; Mrs. George U. Moyse, vice-principal of the Glendale Union High school.

There were brief reports from various chairmen on the work accomplished during the year. Mrs. C. H. Bird reported on the publicity work; Mrs. Florence Wintersgill, secretary, stated that yesterday's meeting was the 298th meeting of the circle, and that the average attendance for the past year was forty at each meeting; Mrs. C. H. Crawford reported briefly on current educational trend; and Mrs. A. H. Brown told of the extension department, which has assisted circles in Eagle Rock, Pasadena, Burbank, La Crescenta, La Canada, Bellflower, Norwalk, Compton, Puente, Alhambra and Sunland.

Mrs. Henry took occasion to mention the wonderful spirit existing and growing through the years among the circle members, spoke with appreciation of the work of Mrs. C. H. Crawford, vice chairman, Mrs. A. M. Rowe and Mrs. McLain, treasurer.

Birthday Cake

During the morning a beautiful pink and white birthday cake, with icing rosebuds holding eight pink candles, was displayed and later the candles lit with prophecies by Mrs. C. E. Hutchinson, Mrs. C. J. Wheldon, chairman of the Grand View circle; Mrs. A. A. Barton, Mrs. Alma J. Danford; Mrs. Florence S. Kurtz; Mrs. John W. Cotton, Mrs. Rome and Mrs. Crawford.

The prophecies were both serious and humorous, Mrs. Danford expressing the serious vein with a prophecy "that the circle will continue to number the same sweet women," and Mrs. Barton, expressing the humorous side, by predicting that "in five years from now all the circle members will meet wearing bobbed hair."

Another interesting feature of the birthday party was the responses to roll call, the members giving the place of their birth and a few facts about it. The count showed that eight native Californians were present, and that other states represented were Michigan, New Jersey, Minnesota, Illinois, Massachusetts, Maine, Kansas, Colorado, Texas, Long Island, Pennsylvania, Indiana, Missouri, Montana, North Carolina, Wisconsin, Iowa, New York, Tennessee, Oregon and Ohio. England and Scotland were also represented.

Riddles and Rhymes

Some told of their birthplaces in historic New England cities, some of childhood homes in the pioneer sections of the mid-western states, and others of being born in the extreme north or south.

One woman proudly told that her birthplace was a small town in Illinois, "where the principal events were morning, noon and night." There were riddles and rhymes and even blank verse used, one of the cleverest poems being by Mrs. C. H. Bird, which read:

"I'm a Michigan lumber jack
From the town of Saginaw,
Where men were strong and broad of back
And drank their liquor raw.
My grandfather ran the main hotel
Beloved by taveling men
But California cast its spell
And I'll never live there again."

Each response was a boost for California and Glendale, each one declaring "I'm here to stay."

At noon the birthday cake was cut and served with luncheon, a special guest table being presided over by Mrs. Henry.

Later the scene was changed to a decidedly feminine court room, with several members of the Reading Circle ridiculously disguised as judges, lawyers, culprits, jury members and other court room personalities.

Order in Court Room

Mrs. C. H. Bird was the stern judge, who kept order in the court room with a great mixing spoon, and carelessly read a funny paper, while there was a lull in business. Mrs. A. H. Brown, small in stature, but mighty in voice, called the cases as clerk of the court.

Mrs. Hensel and Mrs. R. C. Horner were the lawyers and Mrs. Pomeroy the stenographer. The technical expert on spanking was none other than Mrs. D. F. Reichard, while Mrs. Thompson, Mrs. Rosenberg and Mrs. Reinen were convincing witnesses, even to their costumes.

Order was kept by Mrs. John Cotton as bailiff. Mrs. William Wichert was foreman of the jury, entirely composed of women.

Those who were grilled by the gruff "right arm of the law" were Mrs. A. A. Barton, charged with absence from the circle; Mrs. Viereck, charged with not taking the entire membership to and from meetings in her Buick; Mrs. H. V. Henry for appropriating a vase of flowers from the main desk of the library for the meeting; Mrs. Crawford for talking in meeting; Mrs. Rowe for putting eight candles, instead of nine, on the birthday cake; Mrs. Wintersgill for spanking a child in public.

It was indeed ludicrous legal procedure from the fines of providing brown bread and beans for the next meeting, to the supercilious air of Mrs. Wintersgill and witnesses testifying against her, all of whom were cleverly disguised by chewing gum, long earrings and ridiculous headgear.

Confidence Is Necessary

By Gil A. Cowan

Several news items in The Glendale Evening News give cheer and confidence and courage.

Organization of a mortgage firm to operate on a large scale with the intention of bringing eastern money here means more building in "the fastest growing city in America."

Enthusiastic backing of the Glendale realtors in the raising of funds to start the new hotel at Broadway and Glendale avenue gives this city hope for the erection of at least one first class hotel.

Building of a Grand Central public market on South Brand boulevard, between Harvard and Colorado streets will broaden the scope of the Glendale shopping district, tending to make the boulevard one solid and substantial business street.

The financial and commercial growth of Glendale commends such progress to the investor who is settling down after a spree in pyramid profits in oil or other promotion and casting about for something substantial.

Almost daily Glendale Rotarians are receiving communications from San Jose inviting them to attend a district conference of their club to be held there the middle of this month. That is of interest to them, but it behooves us all to know that it is now "blossom time" in the beautiful Santa Clara valley—an inspiring sight for the motorist who cares to make a week-end trip north along the coast and return home through the fertile San Joaquin valley.

If you are to be a good and true Californian, know your state. Take the time, folks, to get out into the country and see the potentialities of this great western commonwealth.

And after you have learned of the fruits and flowers and all, fear not to write your farming friends in the east of the opportunities. Indeed, if you have the money finance some of the farmers who are developing this empire. At least lend your moral support by going into their sections of the state and admiring their ranches, their cattle, their crops, their children, their schools and their communities. It will pay you well.

What a delightful and enjoyable time the Congress of these United States is having in the political garden this spring. They are raking up about everything investigable (if the proofreader will permit the use of such a word) and we are at loss to know just what objective the solons have in mind.

Investigations and the pitiless light of publicity are good, no doubt, but we deeply suspect that the benefits derived from interminable probes will do the body politic no good.

Preservation of the public wealth is admirable. Oil leases illegally or surreptitiously obtained should be cancelled instantly. So should coal land leases in Alaska, or shipping contracts, or government contracts.

But there is another and greater issue coming to the fore, this writer believes, and that is eligibility to public office. We were reading a summary of occupations or professions from which our congress comes. Seventy per cent are lawyers. That is not surprising, because it is good business for the lawyers. They enact the laws. Then they interpret them. Not alone that, they are retained as representatives of interests which want special legislation, or desire to defeat laws which would benefit the public at large at the expense of a few.

Or in case their pubic service is ended these lawyer officials use the entree accorded them while in Washington to get that which their clients desire through the expeditious "back door." You would do it, if you had the opportunity, no doubt. So would we. It is natural, as well as "ethical" in the high and mighty profession.

The public is getting wise to "the tricks in the trade." It is getting tired of notoriety seekers. It is about to explode in righteous wrath and wield the lash on those who betray public trust, ethically or otherwise.

There will be lawyers in congress, always. They will be less in numbers henceforth, we believe. The same will hold true in other official positions. In their stead will be business men who hold the highest respect for the law. And they will be recognized.

It is not only interesting, but pleasing as well, to note the appeal made by President Coolidge for newspapermen to suggest a successor to Edwin Denby, secretary of the navy who has resigned. Truly, newspapermen who are capable of "covering" congress, or any other political or governmental activity, are competent to choose.

In fact, like lawyers, newspapermen have their place in the affairs of government. It is on the sidelines as advisers—they call such fellows coaches in sports. The lawyer can deliver a wonderful dissertation on almost any subject; the newspaper man can write it. But the average man of the world, educated, if you please, but not easily swayed, is best to judge the merits of this theory.

The present Los Angeles county grand jury has a foreman, as well as personnel, that considers the news writer rightly. First of all, the reporters were called into a dinner session and told the objects and aims of the inquisitorial group. They were urged to be fair, to give the jury an opportunity, to give the public the news, to give their papers their best efforts in return for a confidence of all concerned. Nothing but good can result from such a course of procedure.

County Supervisor Henry W. Wright was on the job yesterday in Glendale, looking over the flood control—or lack of it—and listening to the recommendations of the city officials and civic representatives. Mr. Wright called at The Glendale Evening News office.

Woolley, who set the trial for April 17. Charles Dillon, former city commissioner, who is out on appeal after being sentenced to San Quentin for falsifying public records, will go on trial on embezzlement charges March 17.

A. building in the Presidio, at 8 p. m., Monday, March 10, for the purpose of learning the plans authorized by Major General Hines, deputy chief of staff of the army, explaining in detail the functions of each officer in the Finance Reserve department.

At the instance of General Kenzie W. Walker, chief of finance of the army, Brigadier General S. H. Wolfe of New York, finance reserve officer, in civil life a consulting actuary, who is now on the Pacific coast, will be present.

Finance reserve officers from all parts of California are expected to be present at this important meeting, said F. D. Griffith, Jr., assistant chief of staff-military intelligence.

BURBANK

ARGUE QUESTION OF SCHOOL SITE

Agitation Growing Acute as Business Growth Held to Be Dangerous

An agitation, under way for some time to relieve the situation at the Thomas A. Edison school, is growing acute. Many plans have been offered to combat the business growth which is crowding the school to a dangerous degree, chief among them to sell the property and move the school.

Objectors to this plan say that the school district would lose the increases in value certain to take place on this property within the next few years. One suggestion, coming from a man who has made a thorough study of the situation, is expressed as follows: "Move it by sections, to another location, a location that is farther from the dangerous boulevard and to ground that is of far less value, not too valuable for a school building, as is the land on which the building is now located. I saw a five story brick building moved with success, not long ago, and the Edison school would be less difficult to move than that."

Another Burbank resident says: "What have we got the school board for? To make investments for us? To conduct a real estate business? No! We elect them to do the best they can for the city from an educational standpoint, with due consideration to the safety of the children!"

Indian Wind-Shaker

"Big Bear," the person and not the place, is a first rate cornet player, according to Director White of the Community band. "Big Bear" is an Indian, upon whom civilization rests lightly and reluctantly. "But he sure can blow!" says Mr. White.

The Indian turned up at a rehearsal the other night, sans cornet but full of enthusiasm. At the close of the evening's work Mr. White loaned him a cornet and tried the fellow out—when lo and behold, he raced up and down the scales like a chipmunk going over a stone fence.

"Big Bear" is now a regular fixture in the Muncipal band and makes himself heard to advantage on a battered cornet that had seen its best days until he came along.

Open Riverside Bids

Bids on that portion of Riverside drive lying in Los Angeles county but not in Burbank, were opened March 3. This is the stretch between this city and Griffith park.

It is expected that from now on, progress on this great highway plan will go forward faster, according to F. Curt Miller, city engineer, who states that the Fourth Street Advancement association has been holding a series of meetings at the Grand View school, Glendale, to deal with a project to bring a highway from Pasadena, through Sycamore canyon to Burbank and Riverside drive, thence to Hollywood.

The road, according to Mr. Miller, will follow the Pacific Electric right of way from Brand boulevard, Glendale, to Burbank.

THEATRES

"On the Banks of the Wabash" shows today for the last times at the Glendale theater, a J. Stuart Blackton picture featuring Mary Burr McIntosh, Madge Evans, James Morrison and Mary MacLaren.

Distributed through Vitagraph, the picture has its inspiration in Paul Dresser's famous song whose chorus runs:

"Oh, the moonlight's fair tonight
along the Wabash,
From the fields there comes the breath of new mown hay:
Thro' the sycamores the candle lights are gleaming,
On the banks of the Wabash far away."

The film carries with it all of the down home spirit, the dominance of the soil, the kindly hearts, the narrow, misconstrued, well-meaning souls in a home community, and brings also to the audience all the petty little things that disturb gentle lives and bring men and women to the heights in face of grave dangers.

Did you follow our series on how to gain? Send a fully self-addressed stamped envelope and 4 cents in stamps for the directions if you missed them. Meanwhile, remember you have to rest more and eat more. Take at least one quart of milk a day and increase your other food also. Egg yolks and cream are especially good as fattening foods. Cod liver oil is effective also. But send for the directions.

Literally, the term uremia means urine in the blood. In the condition of uremia the toxic or poisonous products normally formed within the system are not eliminated by the kidneys, because the kidneys are diseased, but are reabsorbed by the blood. If you have a condition of uremia you should be under very skillful medical supervision, because it is dangerous. In general, the diet in kidney disease is one conatining no condiments (such as spices, salts, pickles, horseradish, etc.), no tea or coffee or alcohol; very little and perhaps no meat or fish. Milk, vegetables, fruits (the basic or alkaline forming foods) should predominate in the diet and the acid-forming foods—breads, cereals, white of eggs, meat and fish—should be limited. In acute kidney disease the diet for several days may have to be confined to fruit juices.

We have articles on high blood pressure, constipation, balanced diet and auto-intoxication, that may help you. Send the required s. a. s. e. (which stands for "self-addressed stamped envelope").

Tomorrow—Confessions of a Baby.

My Dear Followers:—When sending for material which we offer you, please remember to enclose a stamped envelope bearing your full name and address. The pamphlet on reducing and gaining is the only one for which you must enclose four cents in stamps extra. Address your letters to me in care of this paper. Make them as brief as possible, not over 200 words, and type or write them legibly with ink. Please sign your name as evidence of good faith—we will not use it in any way. Remember it is impossible for me to diagnose for you or to answer you personally. I appreciate very much the beautiful letters you send me and regret it is impossible to give you individual advice. The questions you ask will be answered in the column as soon as possible, if they are of general interest. Don't forget the s. a. s. e. if you expect me to send you the information I have offered.

ader has asked me to write the subject of draping the ows of a small, average home. following suggestions might be appropriate for a city sion, but they are admirable the every-day country house or the city apartment.

iving Room: Use cream (or te) net, scrim, or muslin ight curtains next to the glass; se fall just to, or a little be- the window sill, and may be ished with either simple hem- tching or a narrow, course eam lace edging. Narrow in- rtion to match may or may not added. A length of material either side of the window, er these "glass curtains" make fective over-drapes. Or, if de- red, the housekeeper may use ese side pieces with a straight, gathered, valance between them he top(a "valance" is a short e of material run across the of the window over the glass tains). There are a number tasteful materials from which we may choose our living room over-drapes:- silk, pongee, China or Jap silk, silk brocade, cotton chenille, sun-fasts, chints, cretonne, novelty silks, in fact any other kind of light-weight materials which come in either dark or medium-dark colors (for very light colors are more appropriate for the bedrooms than for living room, dining room or hallway.)

Dining Room: The exposure of a house determines, in general, the color scheme. For instance, dark North rooms require buffs, tans, old-rose, old-blue, or some equally cheerful medium-light shade to make up for the lack of sunshine; and very sunny rooms require gray, sage-green, a darker blue, brown, or some such color to tone down its brightness somewhat. But a great many housewives insist upon some shade of green for the dining rooms because green harmonizes with the foliage of their window-box plants or ferns (and what is a dining room without a bit of growing greenery?) Good materials to use in the dining room are cretonnes, sun-fasts, plain linen, poplin or other wash goods. Silks and other expensive materials are out of place in this room. The glass curtains are generally made of simple white, or cream muslin or scrim.

Hall: If the hallway opens into the living room with a wide doorway, it is best to have its windows (if there be one) decorated like the living room windows. Otherwise choose some rather plain, dignified-looking overdrapes not over-expensive.

Bedrooms: Dotted muslin beruffled glass curtains are sweet here, with light-colored over-drapes of cretonne or near-silk.

Tomorrow—"Just How" to Make Marmalade.

All inquiries addressed to Miss Kirkman, in care of the "Efficient Housekeeping" department will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. So, if a personal or quicker reply is desired, a stamped and self-addressed envelope must be enclosed to question. Be sure to use your full name, street number, and the name of your city and state.—The Editor.

ACTRESS' EYES INSPIRED SONG

Writers Of Paris Hit Tantalized By Them

Mlle. de Mantero

PARIS, March 6.—Her eyes were their fortune, too.

A pair of song-writers from the "Tinpan Alley" of Paris were so tantalized by the seductive orbs of Mlle. de Mantero, actress, that they wrote a song called "Satanic Eyes," and dedicated it to her.

It was an instantaneous hit, and she immediately became known as the "girl with the Satanic eyes."

The song has superseded a popular American nonsense ballad as the rage of Montmartre. Its composers are getting rich from the royalties, Mlle. de Mantero is profiting by her fame, and her sister actresses are tearing their hair.

A score of other actresses are seeking fame in the same manner through other songs now.

Heart and Home Problems

By MRS. ELIZABETH THOMPSON

UNHAPPINESS AT 14

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am very unhappy because I do not believe my mother and father love me. I am fourteen years old and the oldest in a family of four children. I have two sisters and a baby brother. All of my girl friends are allowed to have boy friends, and I am not. One night I went out with a boy without saying anything and some one told on me. My father was very angry and scolded me in a way no father could do if he loved his daughter. He told me that if he ever caught me going with a boy again without his permission he would thrash me.

I wouldn't care so much only I am sure that I cannot do what the other girls do because then I can't do so much work at home. My twelve-year-old sister and I have to do the dishes every night and then I have to help sew and work all evening around the house. My mother says what I learn now will be useful later on. That is all right, but I know enough now to be married and keep house for myself. I have always had to take care of the children and help in every way.

There is one boy I love very much and he would like to go with me. He is the one I went with and got caught. What can I do to keep his affection when I am not allowed to have his company?

BIGGEST SISTER.

My dear little girl, you are not old enough to have a sweetheart. I am sure that your parents do not forbid you to go with boys from lack of love for you; they really have your interests at heart and do not want you to do a thing which they think would be harmful. Girls of your age who are allowed to have sweethearts are very often neglected by their parents. The parents are very careless of their welfare and let their children run wild regardless of the consequences. I always feel sorry for a girl of your age who has quantities of responsibilities, but after all they will not hurt you if you keep a cheerful attitude toward them. For two or three years longer try to be contented with your girl friends and your own family. You need plenty of sleep and time for reading and studying. If you were to become interested in boys you would lose interest in the things which should occupy your time now and will be most beneficial later on in life. Tell your boy friend you are not allowed to have company yet.

TOO YOUNG

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am fourteen years of age and a freshman in high school. I have a boy friend and I don't know whether he cares for me or not. I never have gone with him alone. There has always been some one with us. He got angry at me because one night I went to a box supper with my cousin and her boy friend. He said a few things about me which hurt my feelings. Now he tells me that he cares for me and always has. Do you think he means what he says? He wants to make up with me now and do you think he should? Please advise me what to do.

BRUNETTE.

It does not pay to emain "mad" because of some trifling quarrel. Since the boy is ready to forget, I would advise you to do likewise. Regard the boy as a friend and do not consider the question of his "caring." You are too young.

BEAUTY CHATS

CURIOSITIES OF PERFUMES

Perfumes have always fascinated people from the earliest historical times. Entire systems of philosophy have been built up around perfumes and their effects on human health and happiness. Have you ever heard any of these curious facts about them?

The Sultan Saladin celebrated his triumphal entry into Constantinople in the year 1157 by having the walls of the great Mosque of Omar washed inside and out with rose water.

Mahomet was very fond of perfume, particularly that rather strong odor musk. The enchanting maidens in the Paradise he promised the Faithful are prescribed in the Koran as having bodies of the purest musk! Mahomet was so extraordinarily fond of this odor that he had it mixed with the mortar used in building the walls of a certain mosque so that when the sun shone the sacred building exhaled the perfume.

One curious thing about the odors of plants is that different parts of the plant often yield entirely different scents. From the orange tree, for instance, the much favored neroli perfume comes from the blossoms, Portugal oil from the rind of the fruit, and a third perfume from the leaves. There is a South American white lily whose blossom has the delicate odor of violets, but which when bruised gives off a strong smell of garlic, and in that state is of little use to the perfumer. Some writers suggest that a relationship must exist between these two odors for Cassie flowers have the fragrance of violets, but if eaten give the breath a repulsively strong odor of garlic, imperceptible, however, to the person who has eaten. The author of "The Man Who Ate the Popomac" used this idea by having his hero eat a deliciously fragrant fruit, which, however, gave to his breath forever the most repulsive odor.

Mrs. V. B.—For a salt bath, use only enough salt to the desired quantity of water, so the water will have a briny taste.

G. H.—The only way you can darken your hair would be through a dye, but there is no reason why a young man should not look well with brown hair. If the shade is faded and the hair lacks natural gloss, try massaging the scalp every night to stimulate the circulation. Add to this treatment a good hair tonic, using it several times each week.

M. L. T.—While overeating makes most people too stout, in some cases it will act the other way; as too much food will sometimes cause fermentations, poisoning the system. If you eliminate the rich foods from your diet and eat nothing but simple fare for a time, you will find your weight increasing. A girl of 15 years, five feet, two inches, should weigh from 105 to 110 pounds.

All inquiries addressed to Miss Forbes, in care of the "Beauty Chats" department will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. So, if a personal or quicker reply is desired, a stamped and self-addressed envelope must be enclosed with the question.—The Editor.

With the Women of Today

By MRS. LILIAN CAMPBELL

Miss Hildegarde Kneeland is the first addition to the scientific staff of the new bureau of home economics of the United States department of agriculture at Washington, D. C. She took her A. B. degree at Vassar and graduate work at Columbia university.

Miss Kneeland taught sociology and economics for three years at the University of Missouri and was head of the department of household economics at the Kansas State Agricultural college.

Miss Louise Stanley, chief of the bureau, is of the opinion that Miss Kneeland is one of the best qualified people to head the division.

Miss Gabrielle Borthwick, sister of the late Lord Borthwick, is running a garage near Piccadilly, London, and is making a success of it. Miss Borthwick and her partner, another woman, also conduct a restaurant and a hotel. Apparently American women are not the only ones who are enterprising in the business world.

The National League of Women Voters, a non-partisan organization, oppose the equal rights amendment now before Congress. Attorney Esther A. Dunshee of Chicago, national chairman of the league's committee on uniform law concerning women, gave a radio talk recently urging women to help defeat the bill.

"Ostensibly," said Miss Dunshee, "this amendment is meant to secure to all women full political equality, make them eligible to all public offices, give them the right of entry into occupations from which they are now barred, make them equal with their husbands, the guardians of their children, and in other respects place husbands and wives on a par in their homes. The National League of Women Voters desires these ends.

"But a little thought will indicate that passage of the proposed amendment will not only accomplish the objects sought, but will carry with it a train of most unfortunate circumstances.

"A few of the questions which might arise from interpretation if that amendment were adopted are the following:

"Will husbands continue to be legally bound to support their wives How would this amendment affect the mothers' pensions? Would women be subject to conscription? Would women in Illinois remain minors until they reached the age of 21 or would the men in this state have the right to claim majority at 18? Would fathers be jointly responsible with mothers of illegitimate children?"

A young woman called at a post office in a provincial town and inquired bashfully if there was a letter for her, says Cartoons.

"Business or love letter?" asked the clerk, jokingly.

"Business," was the blushing reply.

As no letter could be found, she took her departure, but at the door turned and came back.

"Please," she said, falteringly, "would you mind looking among the love letters?"

SOX AND GIANTS TO CLASH AGAIN

Glendale Fans Will See Final Encounter with St. Louis Team

Two final appearances of more than ordinary interest will be staged Sunday in the semi-pro ranks when the St. Louis Colored Giants meet the White Sox here; and Sawtelle and Shell Oil fight it out for premier honors in the Triple A. circuit, at Signal Hill.

The St. Louis team was to have departed for the east this week, but due to the rain last Sunday Manager Cobb (not Tyrus) consented to hold his charges here another week and endeavour to untie the knot that now exists between the two teams. Of the six games played each team has won three, and the final encounter next Sunday should literally see blood spilled.

Mr. McClure, the Cleveland ace, whose grunts as he heaves the pill over can be heard for considerable distance, will probably perform for the visitors, with Bennie Hall officiating for the Sox. Hall has won both of his starts with the local team, and has looked very good. Frank Kerwin is going to make a determined effort to get Pete Lapan to catch again. Pete says he will not report to the Little Rock club unless they pay him as much as he was getting in the American league last year. So the chances are extremely good that he will pastime here next Sunday. Kelcher of Little Rock has never been accused of throwing the coffer gates open.

At Signal Hill Wally Hood will lead his cohorts against Josh Clarke's Shell Oilers in the third game of the series to decide the championship of the Triple A league. This should be one of the best games played in this vicinity this winter, and a capacity crowd is assured. Fred Fairbanks will be out to get revenge for his defeat of last Sunday, his first one in fourteen starts.

Guy Cooper, former Seattle huler, will probably attempt to repeat his victory and win the money for Larry Arnold. It should be a contest worth going miles to see, but we advise the fans from this neck of the woods to start early and avoid the rush.

Oxy Baseball Team Wait Whittier Game

The Oxy varsity baseball team will not seek many contests before the regular conference season opens April 12 with Whittier on the Tiger home diamond. Only three practice games are to be played, and one of those will be with Coach Henderson's Trojan baseball nine. Coach Wilkie Clark is not wasting any time. The squad is working hard and progress is already evident. The new coach has the conference pennant as his goal and he is determined to get it. The fellows are fast learning how to play real baseball. Squint Fulton is showing up to advantage on the mound and is developing into a first rate pitcher. Tanaka, varsity outfielder last year, is working into shortstop.

There are many candidates out for the different positions and the material is first class. Hess, Davis and Hazeltine all look good behind the bat. Fulton and Powers will be counted upon to do the chucking. McDonald is holding down first base and will fill the vacancy left by Ole Olesen of last year's team. DeMandel is back on second. Tanaka is the best bet for the shortstop berth. Smith and Linquist are dividing third. The outfielders are Westlund, Westgate, Davidson, Lindley, Hargrave and King.

FAILS TO HIT 'EM

NEW ORLEANS, March 6.—Fred Clarke, former manager of the Pittsburg Pirates, again lent his aid today in attempting to make a hitter out of Hinkey Haines, sub outfielder with the Yanks. Haines, a former football player, is one of the fastest men in the major leagues and a fine fielder, but hasn't been able to hit big time pitching.

HUSKIES MEET BEARS

OAKLAND, March 6.—Washington and California university basketball players will battle here tonight in the second of a series of games for the Pacific coast title. A California victory tonight will give the Bears the honors as they won the opening contest, 32 to 31.

WILL PITCH TO RUTH

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., March 6.—Buckey Harris, the new manager of the Senators, said today that Washington pitchers this season are going to pitch to Babe Ruth whenever he comes to bat. Harris said the records will show that passing Babe to get Pipp is bad business.

DODGERS HALTED

CLEARWATER, Fla., March 6. The infield development of the Brooklyn Dodgers is being retarded by the failure of Johnny Jones, Portland shortstop, to report. Jones is holding out for a cut of his purchase price, said to have been $25,000.

Antares, largest star ever measured by astronomers, is 400,000,000 miles in diameter.

WRITING FROM TRAINING CAMPS

Glendale Evening News Gets Expert's Views

NORMAN E. BROWN

Norman E. Brown, nationally known sporting writer, whose stories appear regularly in The Glendale Evening News, has left for the south to visit the baseball training camps and report on the prospects of the various teams for readers of The Glendale Evening News.

His news and "dope" from the camps of the Giants, the Yankees, the Pirates, the Tygers, the Indians and all the other major league teams, as well as some of the more important American Association and other minor league aggregations, will begin to appear exclusively in the sporting pages of The Glendale Evening News in a few days. As usual, they will be profusely illustrated with the latest views of the training activities and photos of the players.

Brown, in his years of activity in the world of sporting affairs, has covered most of the important national and international events and established a reputation for accurate and vividly interesting reporting.

His dispatches, together with the other news services of The Glendale Evening News will give readers of this newspaper the most complete accounts from the training camps.

Bears Will Battle Washington Huskies

With one hand holding firmly to the flag emblematic of the Pacific Coast conference basketball championship, the California Bears will take the floor against Heck Edmundson's Washington Huskies at the Oakland Pavilion tonight.

The Bears are slight favorites to win by virtue of their defeat of the invaders Tuesday night in a five-minute overtime game, by the score of 32-31.

But any team that forces an opposing five to play overtime and then lose by only one point cannot be overlooked, say the Blue and Gold fans, so a battle royal is expected.

All players on both sides came out of the first fracas in good shape, so full strength will be available for tonight's game. If the Washington team should win tonight the deciding game will be played tomorrow night.

Propose to Tighten Ban on Fight Films

WASHINGTON, March 6.—A proposal to tighten the statute prohibiting transportation of prize fight films in interstate commerce was made in the Senate late yesterday by Senator Jones, Republican, of Washington. Jones offered a bill providing that the mere possession of the films "in any state other than that in which the fight was held shall be presumptive evidence of a violation of the act."

WINS DRAW DECISION

OAKLAND, March 6.—After acting as a receiver for Jimmy Duffy's hard socks for two rounds, Billy Wells, British welterweight champion, opened up and slugged his way to a draw decision in a four-round bout here last night.

RUTH OUT OF BED

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., March 6.—Although confined to his room under orders from his physician who is not willing to take any chances on a relapse, Babe Ruth is able to be out of bed and is clear of fever, according to a statement made by his nurse.

SORE ARM EPIDEMIC

SARASOTA, Fla., March 6.—An epidemic of sore arms made its appearance in camp of the Giants today, Joe Oeschger, pitcher; Frank Snyder, catcher, and Bill Terry, recruit first baseman from Toledo, being the victims.

Tiger Tennis Stars Will Battle Redlands

Oxy tennis team will clash with Redlands University next Saturday morning on the Tiger courts. It will be the first appearance of the varsity on their home playground. Calteck and Whittier have fallen by the wayside under the battle axe of the Oxy tennis demons, but Redlands is stronger than either of these. The Bulldogs will give their hosts a warm greeting and hope to spoil the Oxy hopes of a conference championship.

The S. B. U. C. tennis team is the only difficult obstacle in the way of the Tigers. This tournament between Oxy and the Branch will be an exciting match and will probably decide the winner of the conference. Palmer, Finnell, Boice and Creighton will uphold the colors of Occidental. The first three named are from Pasadena.

THREE MORE REPORT

SAN ANTONIO, March 6.—Steve O'Neil, Jack Quinn and Harris have joined the Red Sox. The squad had workouts in different shifts, the rookies having first practice, followed by the veterans.

CONDITION SERIOUS

ORLANDO, Fla., March 6.—Manager Pat Moran of the Reds was reported in a serious condition at his hotel today, having had a relapse after being reported improving from an attack of acute indigestion.

WILL DISPLAY FORM

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 6.—The Braves underwent two hard practice sessions at their training camps here. Exhibition games will start before the end of the week.

PITCHERS IMPROVE

WINTERHAVEN, Fla., March ....—Ed Walsh has established a finishing school for White Sox pitching hopes. The squad is advancing rapidly under a midsummer sun.

BOLSTERS OUTFIELD

AVALON, Cal., March 6.—Manager Killifer has switched his attention to outfielders, preparatory to the week-end skirmishes of the Cubs with the Vernon Tigers of the Coast league.

PRAISE PATRIOTISM

MADRID, March 6.—A government communique has been issued praising the patriotism of General Weyler, who has just been appointed president of the supreme war council.

BILLY WELLS IS GENTEEL FIGHTER

Has Finished Mannerisms of Screen Idol and Talks About History

By COPELAND C. BURG
For International News Service

SAN FRANCISCO, March 6.—Billy Wells, British welter champion, represents the new school of boxers.

Billy is a "stage gentleman."

He bows and scrapes and has all the finished mannerisms of a Douglas Fairbanks.

He can talk about books, British politics and English history.

He seldom talks fighting.

Wells was at Jack Dempsey's camps before the heavy king boxed Tommy Gibbons and Luis Firpo.

Plays Society

In both training camps he acted as a "social manager" in addition to sparring partner.

At Great Falls, Mont., where Dempsey went through his antics preparing to meet Gibbons in the famous fiasco at Shelby, there were ministers of the gospel, curious society women and big business men who wanted to see and talk to prize-fighters for the first time.

The English welterweight always entertained those visitors at the champion's lodge. He argued about topics of the day with the preachers and he poured tea for the women. He bowed them in and bowed them out and performed introductions exactly as any etiquette book sets forth. Somewhat bewildered, Dempsey's guests left, wondering if Wells was really a fighter and not just an English social secretary.

Can Sock and Box

In the ring Wells is a gentlemanly fighter. He can sock and box. He works prettily, and when it is announced Dempsey is to use the Britisher for a sparring partner the biggest crowds always turn out. Wells forces Dempsey to work fast and he was largely responsible for speeding up the champion so that in his fight with the clever Gibbons Dempsey was really faster than his opponent.

Dempsey, of course, works under wraps against Wells. He has to pull his punches all the time, but, even so, Wells generally leaves the training ring with a bloody face after working three rounds against the heavyweight champion.

One day at Great Falls Dempsey forgot. He let fly a short left hook. Bang! Wells dropped like a sack of wheat. Dempsey picked him up instantly and held him up for the rest of the round. Wells had a sore jaw for a week.

Rumors, Denials, Alibis

By F. A. GRAHAM

Wee-gee returns emanating from the Long Beach precinct state that Harry Westphal, a 240-pound catcher from the Colorado sticks, is startling the natives of the Queen of the Beaches with his feats of brawn. He has been signed by Los Angeles and may understudy Josh Billings this year. One of Westphal's favorite jokes is to take a spike and bend it with his bare hands into a bracelet and close it on some teammate's wrist.

Spring training camp stories are grand, are they not? What the Angels need is some husky youths who can twist the enemy's nose into a braid.

Did you know that the Mercersburg, Pa., Academy won its forty-ninth consecutive swim meet last week? Do you care? All right, so don't we.

The Kansas City Blues, champs of the American Association, are not getting much of a tumble in their practice workouts at Maier park, Vernon, although unusually large crowds are turning out to watch the Vernon Tigers at Washington park.

Gillespie and McDowell of the Tigers continue to impress the watching critics as coming sensations. Both are doing some heavy hitting, which cannot be relied upon too much just now as the pitchers are not putting much stuff on the ball yet.

Manager Marty Krug of the Angels has issued orders that his team members refrain from pleasure jaunting to any of the resorts near Long Beach while the club is in training there.

A deficit of $26,000 has been reported in the coffers of the promoters who staged the Firpo-Lodge comedy at Buenos Aires. Evidently the South American public was also hep to the fact that Lodge was only another set-up for the avaricious Luis.

Is anybody giving this box fighting stuff a tumble? That's just what we suspected. Very well, then we will give the Jawbone League some more debating material. Try this one on your chins. This is one of the most peculiar plays in the record book. It happened in a game between St. Mary's college, of St. Mary's, Kansas, and the Chilocco Indians four years ago. A St. Mary's batter hit the ball into the air toward short with the bases full and was called out, the hit being an infield fly. A strong wind was blowing (one generally is when these stories are told) and blew the ball toward second base as it fell, where it hit the runner there. This runner was called out for being hit by a batted ball. The ball then rolled toward first and the runner there, disgusted with the luck of his team mates, picked it up and heaved it out of the grounds. He was promptly called out by the ump.

All those who believe that one please stand on their heads.

Perhaps it is just as well that the Vernon Tiger was kept indoors Sunday by the rain, which caused a postponement of the game they were to play with the White King soaps. When water and soap get together somebody or something is generally almost always due for a cleaning, and some of the White Kings have a deep and abiding faith in their collective ability to clean the pre-season Tigers.

Holdouts in the Tiger ranks have been conspicuous by their absence this year. The squad is now reported all in, meaning all in camp, not all in as applied to October, 1923.

Clyde Beck, a product of the Southern California Baseball Managers' Association, may get a regular berth on the Angel team this year if he can get to hitting the Coast League pitching. Beck is well known out in the Gardena belt and has many friends among the semi-pro followers. He plays the infield.

Reports via the wee-gee from the Ralston Hotel, Long Beach, buzz us that the Angel players who have reported to date are all batting 1000 in the dining room circuit. There are no holdouts, according to the chef.

News items tell us that up in New York state somewhere the heart action of a turtle has been photographed and thrown on the motion picture screen. Similar attempts made on an umpire proved a failure. The camera cannot photograph that which does not exist.

TROJANS PLAN TO SEND TEAM EAST

Will Enter Penn Track Meet And Stay for Olympic Games Tryouts

If present plans are carried out, the University of Southern California track team will enter a team in the I. C. A. A. A. A. track and field championships at the University of Pennsylvania, May 30 and 31, this year, and then stay over in the east for two weeks until the final Olympic games tryouts, which will take place in Boston on June 14.

The Trojans will enter a team in the I. C. 4-A. meet providing their athletes show championship form in the meets between now and May 24, according to Coach Dean B. Cromwell. As the southern California, Arizona and New Mexico Olympic tryouts will be held in the Coliseum May 24, if the Trojans' showing this season warrants sending a team to the eastern collegiate championships, the U. S. C. athletes will be forced to take a train the evening of the tryouts to arrive in Philadelphia for the I. C. 4-A. qualifying heats, which will be held May 30.

COMPETENCY and COURTESY

If a man in a Bank knows his business, knows what he may do to oblige a customer, and what he may not do—that man is far more likely to meet the customer's questions courteously than one who is not quite sure.

EDUCATION is one of the features of the Security Organization. Step by step the bank tries to train each one of its employes so that he may be courteous and obliging, because he is competent. The same principle and the same system at all branches.

EAGLE ROCK

ROMANCE OF WAR ENDS IN WEDDING

Popular Couple Married at Hollywood Mansion of Mrs. W. J. Roach

Many Eagle Rock people attended the brilliant wedding of Captain Nishan Der Hagopian and his bride, Miss Mildred Lowe, held at the home of Mrs. W. J. Roach in Hollywood. Mrs. Roach was formerly a resident of Eagle Rock and made a special effort to have all her friends there.

The romance of the couple began eight years ago, in New York, when Captain Der Hagopian was a member of the 22nd regiment of the National Guard. Then came the war, and he leaped into fame as a writer, authoritative articles from his pen appearing in such magazines as the Forum and Century.

He is the author of several books that have sold up into the hundreds of thousands of copies and has a new novel, "The Flame from the Ashes," on the press of an English publisher.

Among those present at the wedding were Rev. Hamilton Lash, of the Hollywood Congregational church, who performed the ceremony, Mrs. Lash, Mrs. John I. Smyth, Miss Eleanor Smyth, Mrs. M. A. McFarland, Mrs. F. Burroughs, Miss Haro Buckaby, Dixie Burroughs, Helene Sherwood Peabody, Dorothy W. Strode and Mrs. Chase of Hollywood, D. Der Hagopian, K. Der Hagopian, Aram N. Solakian, A. Mozmanian, D. Armow, W. A. Hawkins, Mrs. Lena Snyder, H. F. Snyder, Miss Ella Murphy, Dr. F. A. Dryden, Lucile Erskine, Mrs. June Howe of Los Angeles; Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Cole, Miss Frances Cole, D. George Cole, Mr. and Mrs. B. H. England, and Mrs. Clara S. Ellis, of Eagle Rock and Mrs. and Mrs. E. England of Chase, Mo.

The Thursday Morning Music club held its regular meeting at 10 o'clock this morning, with Miss Ethel Congdon, 5160 North Hartwick avenue. Composers of the twelfth century were discussed.

The Ladies' Aid society of the Congregational church met at 2 o'clock this afternoon, at the home of Mrs. Olive Henseley on Hermosa avenue.

James Ogilvie, Canadian government railway official, is spending his three months' vacation with Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Vallance of 1513 Hazelwood drive. "Pink" Vallance says he fears Mr. Ogilvie will contract Barney Google's disease, "heebie jeebies," caused from seeing so many beautiful women and wonderful sights. The Vallances are of the Harry Lauder clan.

Sam "Wahoo" Crawford, new baseball coach at the Southern Branch, U. of C., is reported to have given Eagle Rock the "once over" the other day.

Mrs. H. L. Terry of 257 Windermere avenue, prominent in local club circles, is planning a trip to Europe via the Panama canal. With her will go her niece, Miss Lillian Light, and Fred M. Rentsch. During their absence Mr. and Mrs. A. Berl of Pasadena will occupy their home.

Tax Filings Set New Nation-Wide Record

mise revenue bill by the House will not affect in any way the filing of returns for 1923 income," said Collector Goodcell.

"Under a special provision of the Longworth bill, which must be approved by the Senate before it becomes operative, a flat reduction of 25 per cent will be allowed on personal income taxes paid before March 15 of this year, but returns must be made at the present rates, and later on the government will refund the 25 per cent allowance.

"The specific rate reductions in income taxes, however, will not become effective until tax payments are made next year on 1924 income.

"In plain words, file your return exactly as you did in 1923, and the government will later on return to you the amount of the reduction. Taxpayers are urged to file at once, as the revenue office will be taxed beyond its capacity.

Compromise Terms

"The Longworth compromise which was adopted by the House on final passage of the bill, and which now goes to the Senate, provides:

"Normal rates of 2 per cent on net incomes not in excess of $4,000; 5 per cent on net incomes over $4,000 and not in excess of $8,000, and 6 per cent above that amount.

"Surtax rates: Twenty-five per cent less than those in the existing law on the same brackets, starting at 1½ per cent of the amount of income in excess of $10,000 up to $12,000. The maximum rate would be 37½ per cent on the amount of income in excess of $200,000.

"Personal exemptions: The same as in existing law, $1,000 for single persons, $2,500 for heads of families, where net income is not over $5,000, and $2,000 for heads of families where income exceeds that amount.

"The existing law provides: Normal rates: Four per cent on incomes not exceeding $4,000 and 8 per cent on incomes above that.

"Surtax rates: A graduated scale starting at 1 per cent on the amount of incomes in excess of $6,000 and not exceeding $10,000, up to 50 per cent of the amount of income in excess of $200,000."

she carried an arm bouquet of yellow roses.

The little flower girl was frocked in electric green and carried a little basket filled with rose petals to scatter in the bride's path.

Mr. Bolt was attended by Tom Towsley of Los Angeles, as best man.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Peckham wore a gown of pearl gray satin, embroidered with pearls that were on her own wedding dress years ago. She wore a corsage of orchids. Mrs. Everson's gown was of beaded lavender georgette crepe.

Congratulations were extended to the young couple following the ceremony, and later the bride cut her cake, which was served with a bridal luncheon.

Family Well Known

The wedding of these young people is of wide interest, particularly in Glendale, where the Peckham family has been prominent for more than fifteen years.

Mrs. Bolt graduated from the Glendale Union High school only last month. Her acquaintance is wide, for she served as president of the girls' league and treasurer of the student body.

Mr. Bolt, who is a graduate of the University of Southern California, is associated with Mr. Peckham in his insurance business.

After a wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Bolt will be at home to their friends in Culver City.

For traveling Mrs. Bolt was becomingly gowned in a new spring tailored suit in dark blue, with hat, shoes and gloves to match.

Used Car Sale Is Problem for Dealers

used automobile and will drive it until they have had an opportunity to learn more about the new features which characterize 1924 automotive engineering.

"They know at the end of a year their used car will still be worth a bigger percentage of its original price than any new car, and they have had in the meantime a generous measure of service from it.

Favors More Publicity

He advocated strongly more publicity by motor car dealers along the line of used cars, stating that he did not believe the people of Glendale knew that the market values here were far ahead of those in Los Angeles.

"There never was a time when the used car buyer had a chance to get as much for his money as he has now," said Mr. Clark. "Prices have been cut clear to the rubber and all reliable firms are putting out values that a few years ago were unheard of."

The discussion of the problem was quite general with those in attendance, and it is the lan to make a determined effort to "sell" the used car idea to the residents of Glendale.

State Fire Patrols Will Start Earlier

SACRAMENTO, Mar. 6.—State fire patrols because of the unusual fire hazard this season will assume their duties in the state forests on May 1, one month earlier than in previous years, it was announced today by M. B. Pratt, state forester.

Four additional men will be employed, thus making a force of twenty-five fire fighters.

The first appropriation of federal money, $21,000, was received today, and total expenditures during the year will reach $50,000, from state and federal governments, said Pratt.

WAR ON LOTTERIES

SAN FRANCISCO, March 6.—Police have declared war here on lotteries and Chief of Police Daniel O'Brien led a squad of plain clothes men late yesterday in raids throughout the city. According to the police chief, H. & A. and the R. & W. companies are the principal offenders, the latter having offices in Los Angeles.

RAINS BRINGING NEEDED RELIEF

Cattle and Sheep Men Are Encouraged by Last Two Weeks' Weather

SACRAMENTO, March 6.—Recent rains will bring much needed relief to cattle and sheep men, grain growers and those engaged in the production of truck crops in California, according to the report just issued by E. E. Kaufman, agricultural staistician to the federal department of agriculture and the state department.

Reviewing the past two weeks it is stated that the agricultural outlook for the coming season is not encouraging. Conditions in the Sacramento valley are most favorable though the seasonal precipitation on the average is only about fifty per cent of normal. Agricultural conditions in the Imperial valley are also described as "very satisfactory."

Grain Needs Moisture

Wheat and barley in the San Joaquin valley was beginning to show serious need of moisture, but with the recent rain most observers believe that if the remainder of the season is normal, a fair crop will be harvested. Stockmen are still feeding cattle and the quarantine enacted as a result of the foot and mouth disease is preventing stockmen in some counties from moving their herds to more favorable feeding grounds.

In southern California and the central coast counties conditions which were becoming serious were greatly bettered by the rain which was heaviest in these sections. Irrigation and power companies were supplied with a much-needed flow in addition to the benefits to agricultural crops in general.

Conditions in the northern coastal counties are excellent.

Snows Not Normal

Snow in the mountains is considerably short of normal. Districts depending upon gravity water for irrigation during the summer months may be seriously affected, and fruit districts where irrigation is not generally practiced but where rain usually falls in sufficient quantities to carry the fruit may suffer from the drought.

Cherries, plums, peaches, apricots and almonds are in bloom throughout the state.

Power companies in anticipation of the shortage of water are preparing to serve to the fullest extent all those dependent on them for power to operate pumping plants.

Temporary Officers Named by Auxiliary

Temporary officers were appointed last night at the joint meeting of the fathers and members of the Glendale Avenue Parent-Teacher assocation, which was held for the purpose of organizing a fathers' auxiliary. The temporary officers appointed are: E. J. Morgan, chairman; C. W. McFadden, vice chairman; J. F. McMasters, secretary, and George Merrick, treasurer.

The meeting was presided over by the president of the Parent-Teacher association, Mrs. O. H. Spradling.

The election of officers and the perfecting of the organizing of the fathers' auxiliary will take place next Wednesday night, March 12, it is announced.

Alabama Murderer Believed Captured

PORTLAND, Ore., March 6.—A. E. Franklin, accused of being George Meadows, who is wanted in Jaspar, Ala., for the murder of Will Eaton in 1905, left here yesterday for the south in custody of Deputy Sheriff Self of Walker county, Alabama. W. T. Watts, brother-in-law of the murdered man, met the accused man and addressed him, "Good morning, George." Franklin replied with an oath. Watts, who is serving a sentence at Vancouver, Wash., on a statutory offense, said he was positive of the identification.

Sues Wife Named as Executrix of Estate

MERCED (Merced Co.), March 6.—Suit for recovery of $4,668 has been filed in the superior court by J. W. John against his wife, Lenora John, as executrix of the last will of George H. Jones.

John claims that this sum is due him for doing certain work on the farm of deceased and also for providing him with board and lodging from May 19, 1918, to June 11, 1923.

MONTROSE

MAKE PLANS FOR IMPROVING CITY

Discuss Merits of Boosting Community and Valley By Advertising

On account of sickness, a number of the officers of the Montrose Chamber of Commerce were unable to be present at the regular monthly meeting, so the evening's business was conducted by the vice-president, Mr. Coates, while Carrol Parcher acted as secretary.

A letter from the New York offices of the Los Angeles Railway company, relative to advertising on the cars, suggested the Chamber of Commerce and the La Crescenta Improvement association advertise the community in the Glendale busses and street cars of smaller communities such as Pasadena, Riverside and Orange. This service would cost $150 per month including service in San Diego cars, also there would be no extra charge for placards placed in extra cars put on from time to time.

Mr. Mead, of the fire committee, gave a comprehensive report, stating that the county forester desires to meet with the fire committees from this district as soon as possible, also he suggested it would be necessary to add two or three men to the present committee to represent Verdugo City.

A new ruling is in effect, he said, that owners of vacant lots must clean them up so that they will not be a menace to other property. Failure to do this will result in the work being done by the county, and the cost will be put on the owner's taxes for the coming year, he said. The county forestry department had asked Mr. Mead to bring this new ordinance to the attention of all civic organizations.

On the question of appropriate street signs, a committee was appointed to utilize as much of the posts and lumber purchased for this purpose some time ago as possible. Members of the committee are Messrs. Mead, Turner and Collins.

Urges Junior High

Mr. Reinhard, candidate for trustee for Glendale Union High school, was asked to speak. He stressed the question of a local union high school, referring to children from all over the valley who accept the mileage allowed them by the school boards, then hail the passing motorist for free rides. Apart from the risk the youngsters take in hailing strangers for rides Mr. Reinhard objected, as practically all parents do, to the moral effect such a practice has on the young folk.

The long rides children of tender years have to take to reach high school also has its objectionable side, he said, in that it takes a greater portion of their time to reach Glendale than should be spent in this way. A Junior High School district must, according to Mr. Reinhard, be formed some months before acquiring the right to erect a school.

Mayor Fowler Speaks

Mr. Fowler, founder of Verdugo City, was introduced as the mayor of that community. "We were asked a week ago by J. Brown, president of your organization, to come over tonight, visit you, and speak on common interest," he said. "We have no quarrel with you people here, but we are for you and with you in all constructive things.

"I think this the most beautiful place to live of any I have seen. I have placed my manufacturing business in Chicago in my brother-in-law's hands so that I can make my permanent home here for I love this valley. I could have sold out my entire holdings here yesterday at a substantial profit, but I can't part with our little stone house. I couldn't sell because I've undertaken a proposition here and I mean to see it through."

Plan Fire House

Mr. Fowler has interviewed Norman Johnson on fire apparatus and the proposed fire station. He recommended a site somewhere on Los Angeles avenue between Montrose and Honolulu avenues, on account of the central location. He also recommended the placing of sirens at four different points of the valley to be sounded so volunteer fighters would know immediately which district the fire was in.

Mr. Fowler also went on record as being absolutely opposed to annexation and incorporation. A committee from Verdugo City will be appointed to work in co-operation with the Montrose Chamber of Commerce and the La Crescenta Improvement association in purchasing pumpers, etc.

Mr. Mead stated the county had started paving Montrose avenue, fixing the culverts at the wash, and will go straight ahead with the work.

Mrs. Hopkins, manager of the Community Sing, extended an invitation to all to attend, also announcing the Community Sing dance on March 22, to be held in La Crescenta schoolhouse auditorium.

Mr. Chudley spoke on the new section gang settlement being built right in the heart of the residential district asking the Chamber of Commerce to go on record as being against the project, as it is felt this is not the district for a settlement such as that at Rossmoyne, to be moved here. A signed petition will be sent to the railroad company indorsed by the Chamber of Commerce.

WILL USE CAMELS

Economy of maintenance has prompted an experiment in the use of camels in place of horses on some Russian farms.

LA CRESCENTA

WILL GIVE PLAY FOR TWO NIGHTS

Proceeds Will Be Applied to Paying Off Debt on School Curtains

A comedy skit is to be presented to the pupils on Friday and Saturday nights at the La Crescenta school auditorium on Los Angeles avenue. Though composed of local talent the cast has some clever amateurs in it and their specialties are of the clean, fun-provoking variety. Miss Marie Walsh of the Emerson School of Expression has devoted a great deal of her time in training the cast.

The play is given to lift the debt on the school auditorium stage curtains, which have lately been set up and are quite an addition to the appearance of the stage and the hall in general.

The play, "Si Slocum's Country Store," is all that its name implies. Characters portrayed are the village widow looking for another husband, the gossipy old maid who is rather skittish, the darky boy who only feels ready for a party when his razor is sharpened, laughing school girls, the typical country store cracker eating loafers, the lazy boy of the village, the auto fiend who takes his lessons through a correspondence school, the village belle, the summer boarder and her college boy attache, a cow doctor, the tramp and the village constable, the actor, the post card reading postmistress and the genial, good natured old Si himself.

Good music is promised and the performance will start promptly at 8 p. m.

The members of the cast are: Si Slocum, Arthur Swain; Hank Hardback, A. C. Cox; Joe Spruce, Billie Craig; Reuben Jaybird, C. J. Reinhard; Jim Snow, A. Fraser; Slow Boy, Craig Morriss; The Tramp, George Hansen; Ezra Buttons, Lew Wallace; Hiram Plunkett, Professor Cornomile; V. Findlay; the town constable, Ward Van Dusen; Tilly Slocum, Mary B. Darrow; Mrs. Ripples, Agnes Telfer; Tillie Dotts, Helen Swain; Belinda Stokes, Mrs. A. H. Aiken; Mabel Deering, Dollie Craig; school girls, Jessie Hansen, Nettie Cox, Ida Foy, Irene Rose, Anna Fraser and Minnie Findlay.

Wet Fleet Tries to Unload Rum Cargoes

NEW YORK, March 6.—Bobbing at anchor on Rum Row at least twelve miles off the coast, twenty rum runners are making frantic efforts to get rid of cargoes whose total value is estimated at $8,000,000. Skippers of the smugglers, quoting the lowest prices in weeks, said they wanted to unload before the Anglo-American rum treaty goes into effect, making their business more precarious.

The fleet includes six steamships and fourteen schooners. The flagship was the well-known Istar, the British yacht, the nemesis of guardsmen.

CALL NOTED DETECTIVE

WASHINGTON, March 6.—Gaston B. Means, former department of justice agent and prominent figure in many sensational cases during the past five years, has been subpoenaed to appear before the senate public lands committee investigating the oil scandal.

Shooting over decoys is perhaps the most universal means of duck hunting.
